Principal Garfield prepared for school opening

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN
WILMINGTON - Here's another angle at which to view the impressive nature of the new Middle School on Carter Lane.

You've read about the aesthetics of the new building, the manner by which the school has been constructed into three houses named after NASA space shuttles. In the praise of school committee members and selectmen and town officials, you have heard first-hand accounts about the school's appealing design, from the Wang Center-like feel of the new auditorium to the commendable space available in the library that holds the promise of such ample, diverse resources as computers and media equipment and, of course, books.

How about the operations of the new school? What about the ways in which teachers and administrators and students and parents will be able to communicate more closely in a school as big and as advanced as this one?

Principal Suzanne Garfield, who will be the captain of the ship when the new school sets sail on Tuesday, August 29, welcomes the opportunity to describe to you the school's new communications network and the steps she and her staff have taken to prepare the incoming students for it.

For starters, gone are the days when a student could tell a teacher that their dog ate their homework. Once the school's system is officially up and running, teachers will be able to have a Homework Hotline that will enable them to record their daily assignments on their voice mail messages and in their emails. If Mom and Dad want to stay in step with what their son or daughter should be reading, writing, or researching, then all they will have to do is call the school, select a particular teacher's extension from a menu, and listen to a recording that details the work that their child should have brought home that night.

"In terms of effective communication, this Homework Hotline will help solve one of the more traditional problems that all schools have faced," says Garfield. "Gone will be the days in which messages and notices sent home with students disappear into that black hole known as a book bag."

Garfield says that she already parents about, say, an Open House that night or the schedule for upcoming midterm exams or the date of a dance.

Then there is the matter of attendance. Remember the days when teachers took a roll call, filled out a form, and taped it to the classroom door for an office assistant to swing by and pick up? Remember how long it took for that assistant to round up all attendance cards and bring them to the office? And how long it was before all of that information was processed and reported back to each teacher?

Those days are in the past too. At one point near the end of the school year's first trimester, a new attendance-taking method will be in place. Teachers will be able to sit at their desk and enter into the computer who is present and which seats are empty in their homeroom class. With the click of a mouse, all information will be instantaneously sent to a database in the main office. Better yet, a summary of the school's total attendance for that day will be sent back to teachers before the morning is through.

Says Garfield, "This new system will cut down on interruptions and the amount of time it takes to take attendance every morning. At a big school like this one, this is a great way to keep track of everyone and keep them together."

Garfield and her staff have gone to great measures to ensure that all 900-plus students won't be overwhelmed or disoriented or intimidated when they show up for their first day of school.

For starters, there is the set-up of the school, which has been divided into three "houses" that have been named after the space shuttles Discovery, Explorer and Challenger. The student body will be broken up into three smaller communicates with parents and students through email.

A MATTER OF "PRINCIPAL." Suzanne Garfield, the principal of the new Middle School to open in Wilmington on August 29, has done much to set the minds of parents and teachers and incoming students at ease when it comes to knowing what to expect at the new, state-of-the-art learning facility. (Frank Amato photo)

"This summer I have been able to go to the Roman House and use their computer to answer emails that parents have sent me regarding questions about scheduling and other things," says Garfield. "When this school is finally completely networked, everybody will be able to get into immediate touch with each other."

Garfield likes such a technology scenario because it means that at the end of a school day she can slip into her office, sit at her computer, and send out messages to

Burlington Ave. cat rescue

"He's my hero"

By FRANK AMATO
WILMINGTON - "He's my hero", says Irene Dizoglio, of Wilmington Police Officer Rich DiPerri.

After nine years, Dizoglio, who operates the Kitty Love Cat Shelter from her Burlington Avenue home, took a few days off to visit friends in Vermont when fire broke out about noon-time at her home.

"I was in the back shelter room and the door bell rang", Says Annette Famolare, of Billerica who volunteers at the shelter. "By the time I got to the door there was nobody there, I went back to the shelter room, and I smelled Smoke" says Famolare.

"Someone then came to the front door and said there was a fire, and to call 9-1-1" added Famolare.

From that moment on everyone's efforts were directed towards saving the life of the 40 cats that Dizoglio had in her care.

"Skip and I were heading to meet a friend for lunch and noticed that there was smoke coming from the house" Said Joyce Huges, a neighbor of Dizoglio. "When I heard that there were cats in the house, I motion to Skip who was in his truck to come into the house with me," adds Huges.

"We were trying to get as many of the cats of the house as we could. Then the Fire Department came in and told us that we had to get out of the house" said Huges.

"Everybody was great the Police and Fire Departments were very professional" said Huges.

Enter Officer DiPerri. "I can't let those cats die" Famolare heard DiPerri say. DiPerri then

Selectmen finish summer business

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN
WILMINGTON - In true summertime fashion, the August 14 Board of Selectmen meeting was a low-key affair, complete with a light agenda that paved the way for a number of announcements and approvals, a couple of discussions, and a vote or two.

The meeting began on a thoughtful, respectful note when Chairman Michael Newhouse asked his fellow selectmen and members of the audience to observe a moment of silence for Joseph Calvert, who passed away on Monday, August 7.

Calvert had been an employee with the Public Buildings Department for more than thirty years. In the years that led to his passing, he was the Supervising Custodian at the Wildwood School.

Among the highlights of the meeting that followed:

• WEST NILE VIRUS. Moments before Town Manager Michael Cairra announced the mosquito-spraying dates that will take place throughout the community in the coming month, Selectman James Rooney inquired as to whether or not the issue of the notorious West Nile Virus has been dealt with by town officials.

As it has been reported throughout the northeast, the West Nile Virus is a health-endangering virus that mosquitoes have been carrying with them throughout the summer. Birds and various animals that may or may not have been stung by such infected insects have been discovered at various points throughout Massachusetts, and reports of a few stung individuals have come out of the state of New York.

Town Manager Cairra answered Selectman Rooney's inquiry with an assurance that the mosquito spraying that has taken place all summer has taken the virus into account. No reports on the West Nile Virus have been reported in Wilmington whatsoever.

Suggested Cairra, "It's important to remember to dress appropriately at night, and it's a good idea to stay away from any places known to have a lot of mosquitoes."

Anyone with questions or concerns can call the Board of Health or the Wilmington Police Department.

Mosquito-spraying throughout Wilmington will take place on August 16; 23; 24; and 30.

• HULL NAMED ACTING TREASURER. Town Manager Cairra has named Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull to the post of Acting Town Treasurer until a new individual is hired for the Low-moderate income

Rehabbing Wilmington homes

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN
WILMINGTON - Remember Tim Taylor, comedian Tim Allen's handyman on the once-popular sitcom, Home Improvement? Here's a project that would be tailor-made for his tool shed.

The name of the project? The Wilmington Housing Rehabilitation Project.

The goal of the project? To make home repairs on 27 units found throughout the town of Wilmington. We're talking repairs that will be made to heating systems, porches, foundations, electrical circuitry, and more.

Lynn Duncan, the Director of Planning and Conservation, approached the Board of Selectmen at its August 14 meeting and requested approval on a grant application to be sent to the federal Community Development Grant Program. The program is officially run by the Department of Housing and Community Development. The funds requested total $620,770.

If such funds are granted, the money will allow for the continuation of a project that began last spring and will successfully conclude in the coming spring.

"This current project is a big change from the ones we had in the early 1990's," says Duncan. "Back then, we could only use such funds to focus on certain target areas in town. With these new projects, we are longer restricted to specific areas. The funds can be used town-wide."

The project is intended for families who earn a low or moderate income and who reside in a home where the property is either below standards or deteriorating. As stated, the purpose of the project is to restore the home to meet the proper residency codes in Wilmington. One needs only to fill out an application to be considered.

How much money can you hope to receive if your application is accepted? A family of four, for example, can apply for home improvement funds up to $25,000 if their total income falls between $50,000 and $100,000. A larger family, such as one with five members, must have a total income between $54,000 and $100,000 to be eligible. A family smaller than four might need between $45,000 and $100,000.

"AUTOMATIC" 401(K)'S

Instead of waiting for employees to sign up for retirement savings plans, many employers are making broader use of the "automatic" 401(k)s under which 3 percent of the worker's pay is automatically moved into a 401(k). The employee does not have to participate in the plan or can choose a different contribution rate.

An earlier ruling, in 1998, suggested that this sort of sign-up covered only newly hired employees, but now it is clear that firms can sign up current employees, too; indeed, they can amend their plans to cover everyone who doesn't opt out.

These automatic deferrals help companies get an adequate number of lower-paid employees into the 401(k) plans in order to satisfy the IRS non-discrimination tests.

Currently, the Internal Revenue Service is considering whether to end this "automatic" feature to 403(b)s, the retirement plan for schools, universities and other public organizations.

Does your company's retirement plan meet your needs? Check it out with the accounting experts at

corporate center

The changing Woburn skyline...

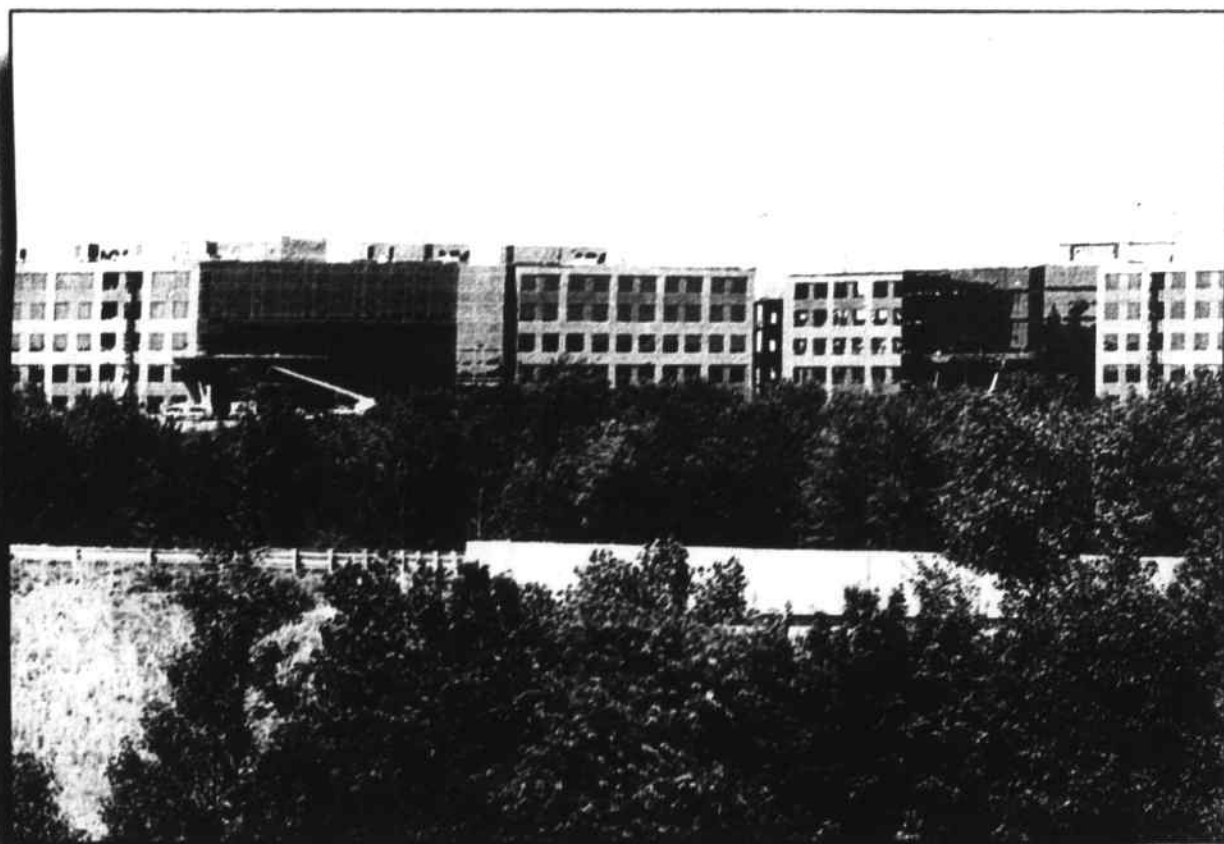

East Woburn at Reading/Wilmington line off I-93

CONSTRUCTION CREWS CONTINUE TO MEET THE early fall opening date for the new interchange off I-93 complete with the necessary signs showing the way. (All photos by Joe Brown)

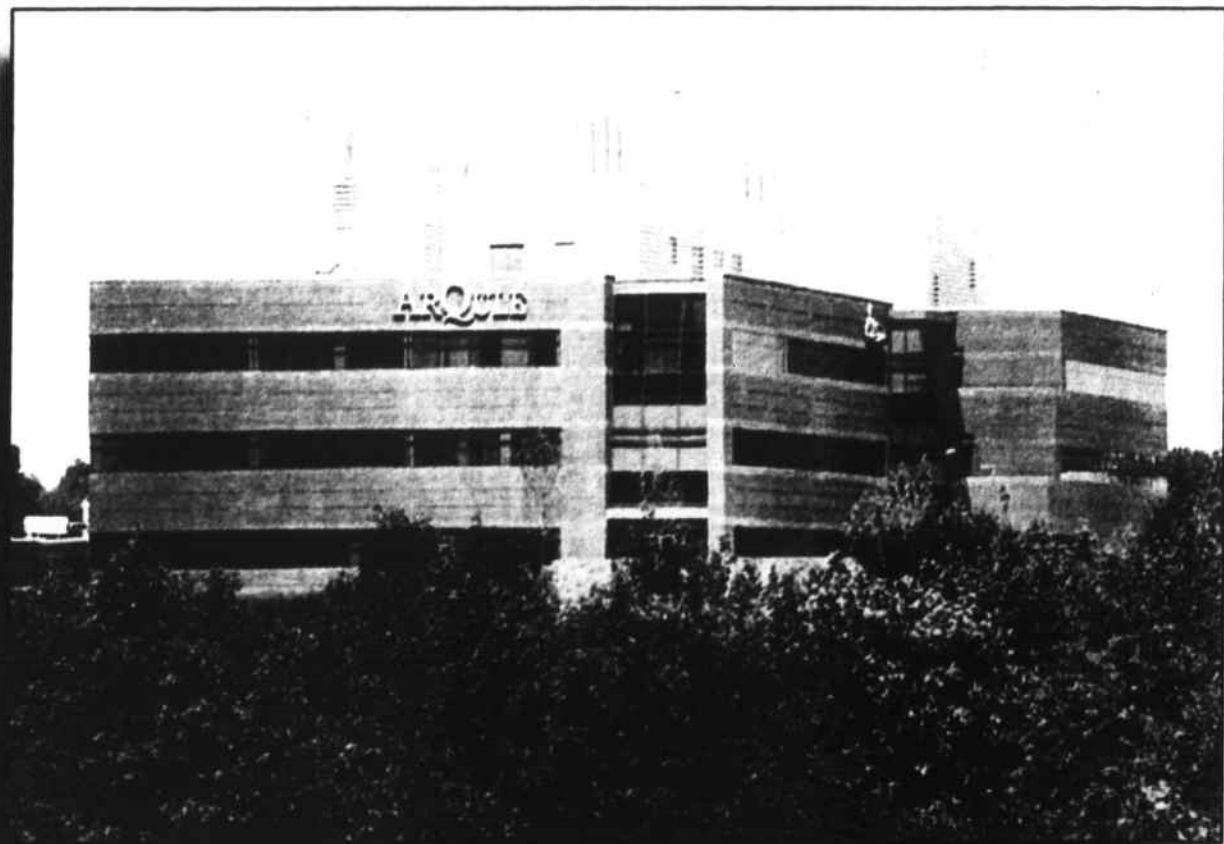

FINISHING TOUCHES ARE BEING PUT ON PARTS OF THE new interchange. Grand opening has been set for sometime in either September or October of this year.

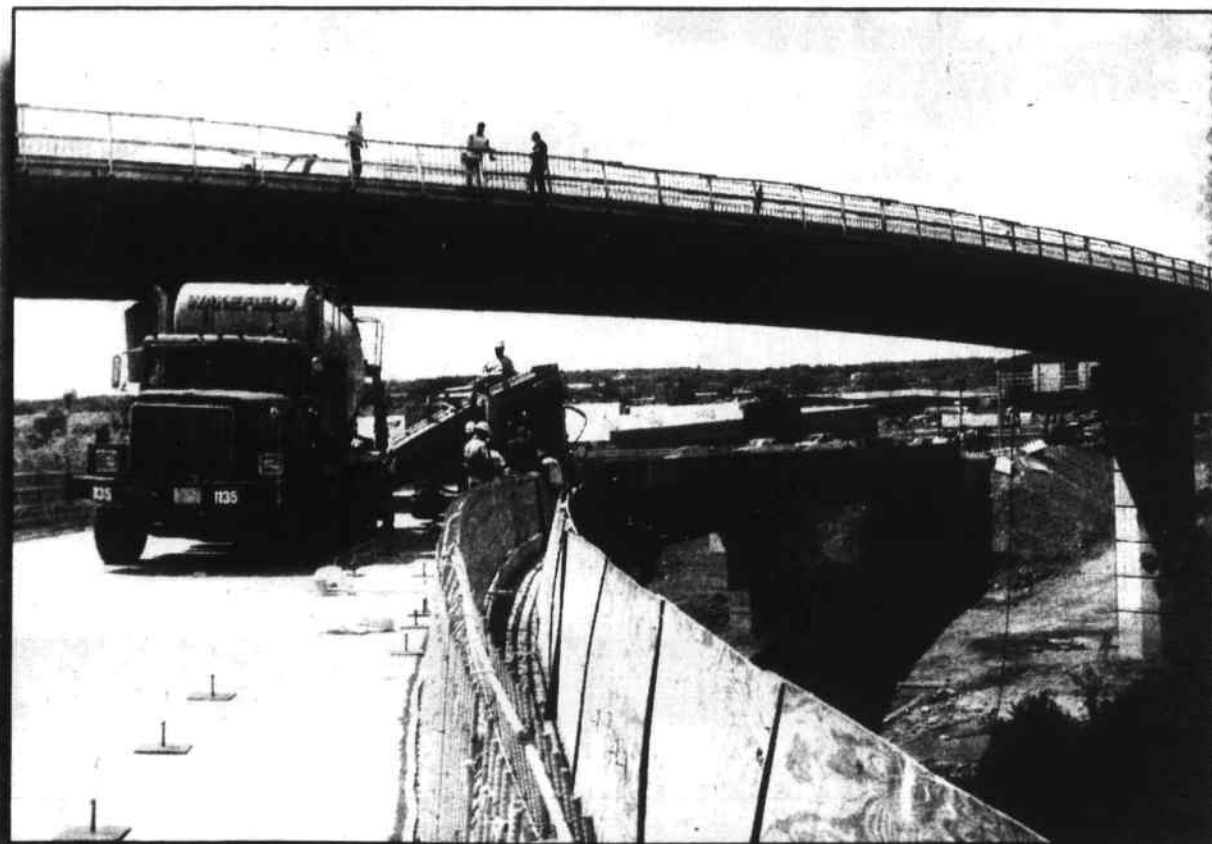

THE GENUITY BUILDINGS ARE TAKING SHAPE WITH the first of three phases expected to open in August. In all, Genuity (formerly GTE Internetworking) plans to occupy some 670,000-square-feet of office space to anchor the new MetroNorth Corporate Center. Genuity is working with the city to coordinate traffic until the ramps open.

NEW TARGET STORE IS READY FOR AN OCT. 8 OPENING. When approved by the Council last year, the permit was conditional upon Target waiting to open its doors until after the new interchange was complete to reduce traffic stress on the Mishawum Road and Commerce Way intersection. Plans include two smaller retail stores.

THE ARQUE BUILDING, A RESEARCH AND DEVWLOPMENT FIRM, was the first to move its headquarters to the new office parks off Presidential Way, Commerce Way and Metro North Drive. Metro North Drive is between the two and will provide direct access from the new interchange through to Presidential Way into Wilmington.

THE FLY-OVER DESIGN IS PART OF THE interchange from Route 93 to Commerce Way at the Reading/Wilmington lines. This shot looks toward the new Target Department store. Target, as well as the opening of Metro North Drive and the regional trasportation center, hinge on completion and the opening of the interchange.

Home improvement grants

"We fall into the Boston Metropolitan area, so the median income for families is a bit higher," explains Duncan.

Aside from the repairs done to your home, the most beneficial feature of receiving such money is that you have a declining fifteen-year time frame in which to pay back the loan. If you fix your home and move out of it within the first year, then you will need to pay back all funds that were granted to you. If you move away seven or eight years later, then you will only have to pay back roughly 50% of what you received. And if you fix your home and live there for fifteen years or longer? You won't have to pay back a cent.

"Every year, the amount that you would have to pay back within that fifteen-year time frame is adjusted to reflect a 6.7% decrease," says Duncan.

There is a Forgiveness Policy in place for those grant recipients who within those fifteen years are affected by hardship or emergencies.

Forty residents of Wilmington have already filled out pre-applications for such home improvement funds.

"I'm sure that people who can take part in this program really appreciate it," Selectmen Robert J. Cain told Duncan at the meeting.

"There has been a high demand for this program."

Duncan agreed.

Duncan told the Selectmen that the current home improvement program, which is being used to repair 27 housing units throughout town, is so successful that it has enhanced the community's chances of receiving funding for the proposed project to fix up to 27 more homes.

July 31st was the original deadline for qualified home owners to submit pre-application forms to receive funds, but Duncan would like to encourage individuals who are still interested to stop by the Town Hall at 121 Glen and pick up an application.

"We already have those forty applicants on a waiting list," says Duncan, "but I'm not discouraging anybody from stopping by and applying."

On the application you should be prepared to give the usual personal information, such as your name and address and telephone number. Also have on hand such pertinent details as the type of improvements that you'd like to make on your house; the age of the members of your household; whether or not a member of your household is disabled; and the income level of your household.

If the grant is received from the Community Development Block Grant Program, the project will be processed by The Town of Wilmington's Community Development Program Office.

Cats rescued

rushed into the house and started getting the cats out, passing them to Sgt. Christopher Neville, who was waiting outside.

DiPerri then collapsed on the front lawn from smoke inhalation and was treated and released from Winchester Hospital.

All of the cats were taken to the Andover Animal Hospital which has a contract with the Town of Wilmington as it pound.

Wilmington Animal Control Officer Ellen Davis oversaw the transfer of the cats to the Andover hospital. "Irene does a wonderful job with her shelter. It is immaculate, and she is such a caring person," says Davis of Dizoglio.

"I'm just glad I was able to help," says DiPerri, who is admittedly distracted by all of the attention surrounding the rescue. "The Fire Department did a great job knocking down the fire, and I was just doing my job," admitted DiPerri.

Dizoglio's home sustained major damage, and it will be about six months before she is able to return home.

One of the shelter cats did escape and Dizoglio is still searching for her. The cats name in "Minou" a large 10 1/2 month old, female, calico/tabby mix, (brown, gold, and black & white mix). She is described as affectionate cat, who would be hungry. If you see her, please contact Animal Control at: 978-658-7845.

As of press time, 34 cats are still being housed at the pound at a rate of $12.00 per day. Some of the are showing signs of upper respiratory infection, which requires additional care and expense.

"She needs homes to foster the cats to while she rebuilds her home and shelter, and she needs to pay for the boarding for the cats," said Davis of Dizoglio, anyone who is able to assist in caring for the cats can call Davis at 978-658-7845 or Email Dizoglio at: catpaws4u@aol.com

Dizoglio is accepting donations to help pay for the anticipated cat related expenses, and should be sent to Kitty Love Cat Shelter, P.O. Box 383, Wilmington, MA 01887

Kitty Love is licensed by the Town of Wilmington, and is a non-profit organization.

Letter to the Editor

We can't say enough...

Dear Editor:
My wife and I would like to thank the Tewksbury emergency crew (Police Department, Ambulance and Paramedics) that helped to save my life when I suffered from several bee stings.

We can't say enough in regard to the quick response; especially the person who had recently lost a sister in the same situation. He had personal interest and went above and beyond his duties. Also, I would like to thank my neighbor Danny Sutherby for his thinking and kindness.

Again, many thanks to all involved.

Wilmington Selectmen meeting

position. Hull will carry out all related responsibilities, from authorizing the transfer of funds to signing checks to delegating town employees to carry out the town's financial business.

"We are in the process of advertising for a new Town Treasurer and Collector," said Cairra. "In the meantime, Mr. Hull will make for a smooth transition, albeit an interim one."

• TO PASS THROUGH WILMINGTON TO BURLINGTON? Burlington Town Administrator Robert A. Mercier has requested from Town Manager Cairra a letter of support to supplement the grant application that Mercier is submitting for Transportation Enhancement Funds. Such funds would enable the construction of a "bicycle/pedestrian greenbelt area" that would pass through a number of neighboring communities.

Mercier stated that the intent of the bike path would be to "enhance the opportunities for our residents to enjoy (a) recreational and aesthetic improvement to our transportation networks."

Cairra told the board that he is in favor of such a policy that would provide said bike space, but that he wanted first to see plans for the bike trail before committing to the idea of one.

The towns of Bedford and Lexington have already expressed interest in being connected with the bike path.

• A FIRM DECISION FOR THE NEXT THREE YEARS. The Board of Selectmen voted unanimously in favor of staying with the services of the accounting firm Tucci & Roselli, which has performed the last nine municipal audits for the town of Wilmington. Such a vote of confidence will ensure that Tucci & Roselli will audit the town's general purpose financial statements for the fiscal year that ended on June 30th, as well as the years that will conclude on that date in 2001 and 2002.

The firm will perform such responsibilities at no increase in price, which solidly fixes their cost at $13,900. For the 2001 Fiscal Year the town had appropriated $16,000 for its municipal audit.

• SENATOR TARR REQUESTS FUNDS. In conjunction with the legislature's recent passage of the Transportation Bond Bill, Senator Bruce Tarr has written to Governor Paul Cellucci and requested that funds be appropriated for nine projects taking place throughout his district.

Two of those projects are here in Wilmington. Senator Tarr has requested $150,000 for the construction of the Rocco DePasquale handicapped access pier at Silver Lake. He has also requested that funds be made available for a study on the feasibility of relocating the MBTA maintenance facility in town.

• SCHOOL ZONES. The board has given the Wilmington Police Department permission to amend the community's Traffic Rules and Regulations. The police department now will add school zones to include Clark Street, which is located out front of the high school, and Carter Lane, from Old Shawheen Avenue to Boutwell Street.

• ONE WAY TO SAVE FIFTY BUCKS. The Board of Selectmen voted 3 to 1 in favor of submitting their opinion that the Middlesex County Selectmen's Association (MCSA) should be disbanded.

In July, the Executive Board of the MCSA had sent the Selectmen a letter in which it detailed two opinions that had surfaced during a recent discussion about the organization's effectiveness.

The letter stated that supporters of the MCSA feel that the association has assisted in the duties of Selectmen in communities throughout the county; has provided a united front with which to help Selectmen push beneficial legislation through the State House of Representatives and the Senate; has promoted well-governed communities through studies in which various municipal methods had been examined; and represented the combined "social, civic and economic interests" of the association's members.

In contrast, critical members of the MCSA's Executive Board feel that the organization is over-powered by the needs and concerns of the county's larger cities, thus eclipsing those of smaller communities.

The MCSA has been in existence since 1924, pre-dating the existence of the Massachusetts Municipal Association (MMA), which also provides services to communities throughout the region, including Wilmington. Given this, the Executive Board decided to afford proper respect to the MCSA through a vote to be taken by Boards of Selectmen throughout the county.

On the whole, the selectmen agreed that the MMA does a good job with addressing the questions and concerns of boards of selectmen throughout the county. The selectmen feel that all of the responsibilities fulfilled by the MCSA are already efficiently handled by the MMA, as well.

Said Chairman Newhouse, "I'm hard pressed to see how they (the MCSA) have been able to help us in the past."

Selectman Rooney cast the lone vote in favor of not disbanding the MCSA.

Referring to the association's annual dues, Rooney asked, "What do we have to lose? It's only fifty bucks, and we haven't heard anything negative about the MCSA."

Rooney made a motion to submit a vote to keep the MCSA banded together, but it failed when nobody offered to second it.

• WE'LL DRINK TO THAT! The Wilmington Water Department has received a Letter of Recognition from the Department of Environmental Protection for its score in the top 20% in the 2000 Public Water System Awards program.

The Wilmington Water Department's score was based on its compliance with drinking water regulations, its overall evaluation, and its participation in certain volunteer activities in 1999.

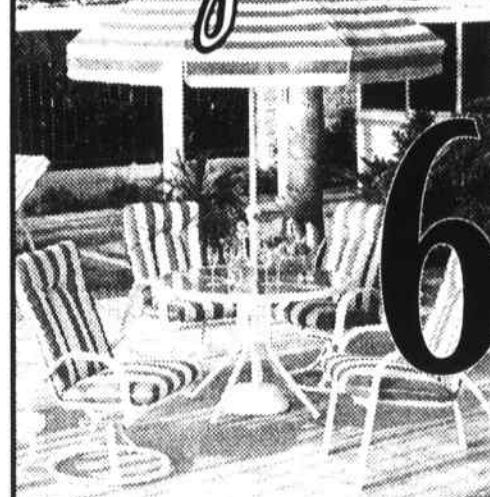

Says David Y. Terry, the Director of the Drinking Water Program, "Your high score reflects your system's ability to consistently provide high-quality drinking water to your customers."

Impressed by such praise, Selectman Dan Wandell suggested that the Board of Selectmen send a letter to Water and Sewer Director Michael Woods to commend him on a job well done.

• IMPORTANT DATES. WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 30th will be the last day to vote in the State Primary Election. At the Selectmen meeting, the board signed the warrant to have the primary election be held on Tuesday, September 19. On August 30th, the Town Clerk's Office at the Town Hall will remain open until 8 p.m.

WHATEVER HAPPENS TO THOSE TREE LIMBS and brush that's dropped off at the Wilmington recycling center? Well, a couple of times a year the largest chipper on the eastern seaboard is hauled in and it shreds them into mulch. The mulch is then used in landscaping projects around town.

The recycling center is open Monday through Friday 8 a.m. - 2 p.m. and Saturdays 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. and the first and third Sundays of the month from 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. Wilmington residents can drop off brush and leaves.

Another product of the center is compost. Once the leaves break down they are mixed with dirt for garden and lawn use. It is free for the taking for residents only. (Bring your own shovel) (Stu Neilson photo)

Births

KENNEDY - Zoe Helen, first child to Dan and Ruth Kennedy of North Reading on July 19 at Massachusetts General Hospital, Boston.

Grandparents are Jim and Helen Durkee of Wilmington and Dick and Marilyn Kennedy of Madison, Ct. Great-grandmother is Vera Rothwell of Wilmington.

McFADYEN: Kendra Grace, second daughter to Jay and Beth (Patterson) McFadyen of Tewksbury on June 19 in Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Grandparents include Richard and Terry (Sughrue) Patterson of Wilmington, Irene (Giuliano) McFadyen of Tewksbury and the late Jim McFadyen.

Great-grandparents include Jim and Catherine McFadyen of Wilmington and Ann Giuliano of the North End.

Kendra's sister is Juliana, 22 months.

Wiberg back on TV and in the Crier

WILMINGTON - Popular columnist and author Hugh Wiberg of Wilmington will be back on the airwaves as Martha Stewart repeats an earlier segment. Stewart learned of Wiberg's book, "Hand-feeding Wild Birds" and decided to run a segment of her show on the book.

Scheduling conflicts at ABC lead the Town Crier to publish several scheduled airings of that segment, however, the author states firmly that he has been assured that this repeat broadcast will NOT be rescheduled.

The show will be on Channel 4

(WBZ-TV) at 9:00 a.m. on Tuesday, August 22, 2000.

It is no coincidence that Wiberg has also been picked up by the DISCOVERY Channel. They have filmed a segment on his book which they have scheduled to broadcast on Sept. 25 at 1 p.m. on "Home Matters" in Wilmington that's channel 39 on cable TV and in Tewksbury it's on channel 32.

The Town Crier and Wiberg have also come to an agreement on his monthly column to appear in these pages. That column will resume Sept. 27 and continue through April.

Protecting your self against identity theft

BOSTON - As part of the Massachusetts Bankers Association's continuing efforts to promote financial education and safety, the Association recently released tips to help consumers avoid becoming victims of identity theft. This problem has become one of the fastest growing types of fraud with up to 500,000 cases each year.

Identity theft, also called "account takeover fraud," involves criminals stealing individuals' personal credit information and assuming their identities by applying for credit under the stolen name, running up huge bills, defaulting creditors and generally ruining victims' credit histories.

"Vigilant monitoring of your personal information and knowing with whom you are doing business are two of the best ways to avoid becoming a victim," said Daniel J. Forte, president, MBA. "Understanding how criminals gain access to your personal information is your first line of defense."

Consumers can avoid becoming victims by following some simple tips developed by the American Bankers Association:

* Don't provide your Social Security number or other personal credit information to anyone who calls you. Criminals use this information to open new charge accounts under your name.

* Tear up receipts, bank statements and unused credit card offers before throwing them away. Criminals can collect bits of information about you by going through your trash.

* Watch for missing mail and don't mail bills from your home mailbox with the flag up. An identity thief may steal your mail and file a change of address form with your credit card company or the U.S. Postal Service.

* Review your monthly accounts regularly for any unauthorized charges.

* Order copies of your credit report once a year to ensure accuracy.

* When conducting business online, make sure that you are operating in a secure environment.

* Don't open e-mail from unknown sources. Virus detection software should always be used when utilizing the Internet.

* Protect your Personal Identification Numbers (PINs) and passwords and change them frequently.

* Report any suspected fraud to your bank, credit card companies, Office of the Attorney General, and the fraud units of the three credit reporting agencies immediately. The fraud unit numbers are: Trans Union (800) 916-8800; Experian (800) 301-7195; and Equifax, (800) 525-6285. You can reach the Massachusetts Attorney General at (617) 727-8400.

The Massachusetts Bankers Association represent more than 210 commercial, savings and cooperative banks and savings and loans headquartered in the commonwealth. The great majority of its members are community banks.

populations, each of which will be designated to one of the "houses." In the weeks ahead, students will receive in the mail information regarding which house at which they'll be hanging their academic thinking hats.

"The intent of having these three houses is to give kids the comfort that they are attending a smaller school within a bigger one," says Garfield. "The students will be able to get to know their teachers better, as well as each other."

The decision to create three houses within one school was made through research that has shown that students do better in smaller learning environments in which their teachers really know them well.

Says Garfield, "Parents believe that it is important for their child to meet as many different people as possible, but, actually, research shows that it is equally or even more important that students learn to develop relationships within smaller groups of classmates and teachers."

What about the potential for division? What about the concern that students will develop a protective, competitive sense of turf in being designated to one specific region of the new building?

Garfield and her staff have had those bases covered for quite some time now. The sixth, seventh and eighth graders will all have their own lunches together. Some classes, such as reading and music courses and extracurricular activities, will have a mix of students from all three houses.

"Students will most likely spend at least one-third of their school days in other houses, so they will get to meet and interact with other students," says Garfield.

In the springtime, Garfield and other principals in the school system went to each of the elementary schools and spoke with the incoming sixth graders. Visits were also taken to the North and West Intermediate Schools, where sixth, seventh and eighth graders are poised to make their transition to the new school. During all such visits, Garfield gave students presentations regarding the new school, answered any inquiries, and offered them email addresses to which they could send any further questions.

Since the springtime, the student councils of both Intermediate Schools have been joined together for meetings. Faculties and Parent-Teacher Support Groups from both schools have also met together at various points in the last few months.

"We have worked hard to merge all of the constituencies," says Garfield. "There used to be a natural competitiveness between the two intermediate schools, and we have taken steps to eliminate that and create a sense of unity."

Such steps have included a trip to Washington D.C. with eighth-graders from both Intermediate schools, an annual "field day" for the sixth and seventh graders from both schools, and even jointly-held dances.

"We have done all that we can to erase the possibility of having turf issues that could develop from having students from two different schools combined into one bigger school," assures Garfield.

Garfield and her administration also had two meetings with parents during this past spring. One meeting was held for the parents of incoming sixth graders, and the other was held with the parents of students who will enter the new school as seventh and eighth graders.

"Even though we didn't know the answers to all of the parents' questions at the time, we at least were able to familiarize them with the school and its related issues," says Garfield.

Garfield will also meet with teachers during a workshop on August 21st, 22nd and 23rd that will introduce them to the school, acquaint them with its operations, and inform them about safety procedures and other important measures.

Six computers in each classroom, five for students and one for the teacher. Extensive voice mail systems and widespread electronic mail. Complete interconnection with the World Wide Web. And let's not forget good, old fashioned newsletters and traditional, face-to-face student-teacher-parent conferences. Is there any doubt that parents and teachers and students will be able to work as closely with each other than ever before?

Of the many things that the new Middle School will do well, one notable quality will be the way it will serve daily as a conduit into the world of education in the 21st century.

New school gets an A+ for communication

By SHAWN P. SULLIVAN
There is a new Middle School that is just about ready to open on Carter Lane in Wilmington.

Construction crews are putting the finishing touches on it. Administrators have already shown up there for work. Kids are getting excited for their first day there on Tuesday, August 29.

The Wilmington School Committee and the Board of Selectmen have been given a tour of the new educational facility. Members from both bodies emerged from the 90-minute walk-through with words like "awesome" and "impressive" notices sent home with students and "beautiful" and "state of the art" on their lips.

This is some school. At a board meeting in late July, one Wilmington Principal Suzanne Garfield, who will be the captain of the ship when the new school sets sail on August 29, welcomes the opportunity to schedule and other things," says describe to you the school's new Garfield. "When this school is fi-communications network and the nally completely networked, every- steps she and her staff have taken body will be able to get into imme- to prepare the incoming students diate touch with each other."

For starters, gone are the days when a student could tell a teacher end of a school day she can slip into that their dog ate their homework. her office, sit at her computer, and Once the school's system is offi- cially up and running, teachers will say, an Open House that night or be able to have a Homework Hotline the schedule for upcoming midterm that will enable them to record exams or the date of a dance.

Then there is the matter of their daily assignments on their voice mail messages and in their end. Remember the days when teachers took a roll call, filled out a form, and taped it to the classroom door for an office assistant to swing by and pick up? Remember how long it took for that assistant to round up all attendance cards and bring them to the office? And how long it was before all of that information was processed and reported back to each teacher? Those days are in the past too. At one point near the end of the school year's first trimester, a new attendance-taking method will be in place. Teachers will be able to sit emails. If Mom and Dad want to stay in step with what their son or daughter should be reading, writing, or researching, then all they will have to do is call the school, select a particular teacher's extension from a menu, and listen to a recording that details the work that their child should have brought home that night.

"In terms of effective communication, this Homework Hotline will help solve one of the more traditional problems that all schools have faced," says Garfield. "Gone will be the days in which messages and notices disappear into that black hole known as a book bag."

Garfield says that she already communicates with parents and students through email.

"This summer I have been able to go to the Superintendent's Office and use the computer there to answer emails that parents have sent regarding questions about scheduling and other things," says Garfield. "When this school is fi-communications network and the nally completely networked, every- steps she and her staff have taken body will be able to get into imme- to prepare the incoming students diate touch with each other."

Garfield likes such a techno-sce- nario because it means that at the end of a school day she can slip into her office, sit at her computer, and send out messages to parents about, say, an Open House that night or be able to have a Homework Hotline the schedule for upcoming midterm that will enable them to record exams or the date of a dance.

Then there is the matter of their daily assignments on their voice mail messages and in their end. Remember the days when teachers took a roll call, filled out a form, and taped it to the classroom door for an office assistant to swing by and pick up? And how long it was before all of that information was processed and reported back to each teacher? Those days are in the past too. At one point near the end of the school year's first trimester, a new attendance-taking method will be in place. Teachers will be able to sit at their desk and enter into the computer who is present and which seats are empty in their homeroom class. With the click of a mouse, all information will be instantaneously sent to a database in the main office. Better yet, a summary of the school's total attendance for that day will be sent back to teachers before the morning is through.

Says Garfield, "This new system will cut down on interruptions and the amount of time it takes to take attendance every morning. At a big school like this one, this is a great way to keep track of everyone and keep them together."

Garfield and her staff have gone to great measures to ensure that all 900-plus students won't be overwhelmed or disoriented or intimidated when they show up for their first day of school.

For starters, there is the set-up of the school, which has been divided into three "houses" that have been named after the space shuttles Discovery, Explorer and Challenger. The student body will be broken up into three smaller populations, each of which will be designated to one of the "houses." In the weeks ahead, students will receive in the mail information regarding which house at which they'll be hanging their academic thinking hats.

"The intent of having these three houses is to give kids the comfort that they are attending a smaller school within a bigger one," says Garfield. "The students will be able to get to know their teachers better, as well as each other."

Remote access to newspaper on line

As a member of the Northeastern Massachusetts Library System (NMRLS), Wilmington library patrons can access the Dialog@CARL Basic Collection of 148 full-text newspapers including the Boston Globe and Boston Herald, plus over 100 other directories and reference sources. To use this service, one must have a library card, which is requested on the "Home Access Site." To log in go to: www.mlin.lib.ma.us/dialog_carl_n.html

Technical services

When you come to the library and look up the title of a book in the online public log and find it on the shelf, do you ever wonder what processes had to take place for that book to be there...so you could find it and borrow it? The department within the library that is responsible for all the behind the scenes work that is involved in ordering and processing library materials is called the "Technical Services Department."

Although the Technical Services Department is not seen by the public, it is vital to the operation of the library. The staff in this department uses a variety of vendors to order books and other materials selected by public service librarians. When they arrive at the library, the materials must be checked against invoices and bills prepared for payment. Library materials are then cataloged and entered into the network database. The books, videos, compact discs, etc. have to be prepared with book covers or protective cases before they can be put on library shelves. In 1999, this department processed over 5,000 items.

Technical Services staff also have to maintain the database which requires not only entering new materials but removing records of library materials that are withdrawn because they are long overdue or worn and dated. Other tasks done by this staff include repairing or mending damaged or worn library books and compiling statistical reports in order to keep an accurate count of library holdings. One other very important responsibility Technical Services has is maintaining the library computers, a responsibility which is increasing with the growing demand of information technology in libraries. The able and efficient staff who work in this department are Laurel Toole, Technical Service Librarian and Lucy Percuoco and Gena Weaver, Technical Services Assistants, and Amanda Gustin, part time library page.

At the Tech Teachers were back to class

BILLERICA - As students were enjoying their summer vacations, staff members at Shawsheen Tech were back in school - as students. The Shawsheen Tech Summer Institute of Professional Development at the end of June brought 70 educators together for four days to hear and share ideas about project-based learning, school law, web page design, technical resources of the library and more.

Teachers from Shawsheen Tech and other area high schools were active participants in the sessions offered by Chris Kingsley of the Heller School at Brandeis University Center for Youth and Communities. Kingsley discussed a variety of problem based projects with aspects of cooperative and experiential learning, then asked participants to move into groups to collaborate and create projects. He told them the "best learning rich project I've seen - bar none," was implemented in Scotia, New York, and addressed concerns for elderly shut-ins and the need for teens to reach out. Teens were paired with elders and asked to make a daily, scheduled telephone call. If the elder did not answer, an emergency system was in place that could include calling a friend, relative and eventually the police if needed. "The program saved three lives a year," Kingsley told the attentive audience in an informal keynote talk. Students, uncomfortable at first, were encouraged by peer support and the elders themselves who invited conversation when called.

Results, in addition to saving lives, were impressive. "Kids relationships with their own grandparents improved," Kingsley related. They also learned to deal with death more effectively. Even their grades improved, and those running the program wondered why. Kingsley said the added responsibility, self-search, and learning the importance of following through transferred to other parts of their life, "including school."

Profusion of Projects

The groups at the Shawsheen Institute participants conceived a variety of their own plans, brainstorming and choosing projects to improve community outreach, academic improvement, and applied learning. Their ideas included: designing a handicapped ramp for a member of the community, instituting school-wide recycling, developing a computer presentation with audio to demonstrate how to find a terminal velocity, organizing a blood pressure screening for school staff, introducing web page and presentation design to freshmen, establishing a fitness trail on school grounds, creating a peer support group, exploring an aspect of World War II and presenting the project using a variety of media tools, refurbishing a school courtyard as an interpretive nature trail, and implementing a "career quest" program that would have students write resumes and publish a job search guide for the school.

"At Shawsheen, I felt I was enhancing, rather than introducing project-based learning," Kingsley said. "I was impressed by the level of knowledge, the experience of the staff and their caring," he noted. Kingsley, a self-described "youth worker" for 20 years, has been a counselor, developer and teacher, and came to the Heller School at Brandeis, Center for Youth Communities to be able to continue a focus on youth development, particularly vulnerable youth. He is a graduate of Clarkston University with a B.S.E.E. and specialized in historic preservation for master's degree work at Boston University. It was while he worked with at-risk teens in Dorchester during a sum-

Shawsheen Institute participants also took part in any three of seven open sessions, most of which addressed technology in the educational setting. In the Drafting Technology lab oratory, participants learned how to operate the CAD system to design projects while in Graphic Arts they learned how to get connected from their PCs for photo copying and other digital uses. In the library, the digital camera, scanner, email and Internet use were explained, while in Commercial Art and Design, participants learned a number of application on Macintosh computers. Other sessions included demonstrations of the CCC software program for English, math and science; a review of MS Office applications; and a demonstration of using web pages in the classroom.

Kingsley said some of the typical aspects of project based learning also have the best chance of being retained by students. Statistics from the National Training Laboratories in Bethel, Maine show that the average retention rate is 90 percent for projects in which students teach others and where there is an immediate use of learning. All other methods are lower in their retention rate: practice by doing, 75 percent; discussion, 50 percent; demonstration, 30 percent; audio-visual, 20 percent; reading, 10 percent, and lecture, five percent.

Kingsley was brought to Shawsheen through the efforts of John McDermott, Assistant Superintendent, and a group of Shawsheen teachers who had attended a local School to Work program at Sun Microsystems where Kingsley had been a speaker.

THE TOWNSENDS HAVE A NEW HOUSE Carl and Connie Townsend have been living in a small house on the corner of Salem St. and Arlene Ave. for eight years with their four children, Ryan, Joshua, Rory and Connor. It was tight quarters for a family with four boys, so the Townsends built a new house in their back yard. The day came on Tuesday to tear down the house they had been living in and move into the new house. (Stu Neilson photo)

That's not an addition

House torn down on Salem St.

by STU NEILSON

WILMINGTON - With video camera in hand, Carl watched as John Butt ripped the roof off Carl's house. It was a delicate operation. There was little room for error for a brand new house was only inches away from the one being torn down.

Carl and Connie Townsend have been living with another house in their backyard for months. Built by Carl, the new house is a welcome addition to the family. Many helpers, including Mike Welch and John Butt to the work. But an addition it is not.

Many people have watched the construction for months. Most, even neighbors, thought that the new house was a huge addition to the old. They were shocked on Tuesday as the backhoe did its work. Neighbor

Sandra Curtin, who is active in WCTV, heard the crunching and rushed to the TV studio to get a video camera.

It has been months since Connie has had a kitchen with cabinets. The new house was built so close to the old one that part of the old kitchen had to be removed and the cabinets had to be torn out to allow the new house some room.

Some room it has. The two older boys have their own rooms, and the younger ones will later when they're older. Carl predicts that within a few weeks he will have a lovely landscaped lawn and a new driveway to accompany the new house. Connie is thrilled with the new house. "Six people with one bathroom! It's really a relief."

The old house was built by the Jackson Brothers back in 1953. It was one of the first in a development that spanned decades and 17 acres of the Harriman property at the head of Middlesex Ave. and Salem Street. Caleb Harriman had owned the old tannery in North Wilmington (where Dinette World is today) and had employed hundreds of people.

The Jacksons came to town in the late 40's and began building houses. Their name on a house meant quality construction. For decades Realtors would list a home's first good feature as, "Jackson Built."

But another Jackson Built house has gone by the wayside as it was replaced by another nearly three times the size for a family of six to spread its wings.

Remote access to newspaper on line

As a member of the Northeastern Massachusetts Library System (NMRLS), Wilmington library patrons can access the Dialog@CARL Basic Collection of 148 full-text newspapers including the Boston Globe and Boston Herald, plus over 100 other directories and reference sources. To use this service, one must have a library card, which is requested on the "Home Access Site." To log in go to: www.mlin.lib.ma.us/dialog.carl_n.html

Technical services

When you come to the library and look up the title of a book in the online public log and find it on the shelf, do you ever wonder what processes had to take place for that book to be there...so you could find it and borrow it? The department within the library that is responsible for all the behind the scenes work that is involved in ordering and processing library materials is called the "Technical Services Department."

Although the Technical Services Department is not seen by the public, it is vital to the operation of the library. The staff in this department uses a variety of vendors to order books and other materials selected by public service librarians. When they arrive at the library, the materials must be checked against invoices and bills prepared for payment. Library materials are then cataloged and entered into the network database. The books, videos, compact discs, etc. have to be prepared with book covers or protective cases before they can be put on library shelves. In 1999, this department processed over 5,000 items.

Technical Services staff also have to maintain the database which requires not only entering new materials but removing records of library materials that are withdrawn because they are long overdue or worn and dated. Other tasks done by this staff include repairing or mending damaged or worn library books and compiling statistical reports in order to keep an accurate count of library holdings. One other very important responsibility Technical Services has is maintaining the library computers, a responsibility which is increasing with the growing demand of information technology in libraries. The able and efficient staff who work in this department are Laurel Toole, Technical Service Librarian and Lucy Percuoco and Gena Weaver, Technical Services Assistants, and Amanda Gustin, part time library page.

At the Tech Teachers were back to class

BILLERICA - As students were enjoying their summer vacations, staff members at Shawsheen Tech were back in school - as students. The Shawsheen Tech Summer Institute of Professional Development at the end of June brought 70 educators together for four days to hear and share ideas about project-based learning, school law, web page design, technical resources of the library and more.

Teachers from Shawsheen Tech and other area high schools were active participants in the sessions offered by Chris Kingsley of the Heller School at Brandeis University Center for Youth and Communities. Kingsley discussed a variety of problem based projects with aspects of cooperative and experiential learning, then asked participants to move into groups to collaborate and create projects. He told them the "best learning rich project I've seen - bar none," was implemented in Scotia, New York, and addressed concerns for elderly shut-ins and the need for teens to reach out. Teens were paired with elders and asked to make a daily, scheduled telephone call. If the elder did not answer, an emergency system was in place that could include calling a friend, relative and eventually the police if needed. "The program saved three lives a year," Kingsley told the attentive audience in an informal keynote talk. Students, uncomfortable at first, were encouraged by peer support and the elders themselves who invited conversation when called.

Results, in addition to saving lives, were impressive. "Kids relationships with their own grandparents improved," Kingsley related. They also learned to deal with death more effectively. Even their grades improved, and those running the program wondered why. Kingsley said the added responsibility, self-search, and learning the importance of following through transferred to other parts of their life, "including school."

Profusion of Projects
The groups at the Shawsheen Institute participants conceived a variety of their own plans, brainstorming and choosing projects to improve community outreach, academic improvement, and applied learning. Their ideas included: designing a handicapped ramp for a member of the community, instituting school-wide recycling, developing a computer presentation with audio to demonstrate how to find a terminal velocity, organizing a blood pressure screening for school staff, introducing web page and presentation design to freshmen, establishing a fitness trail on school grounds, creating a peer support group, exploring an aspect of World War II and presenting the project using a variety of media tools, refurbishing a school courtyard as an interpretive nature trail, and implementing a "career quest" program that would have students write resumes and publish a job search guide for the school.

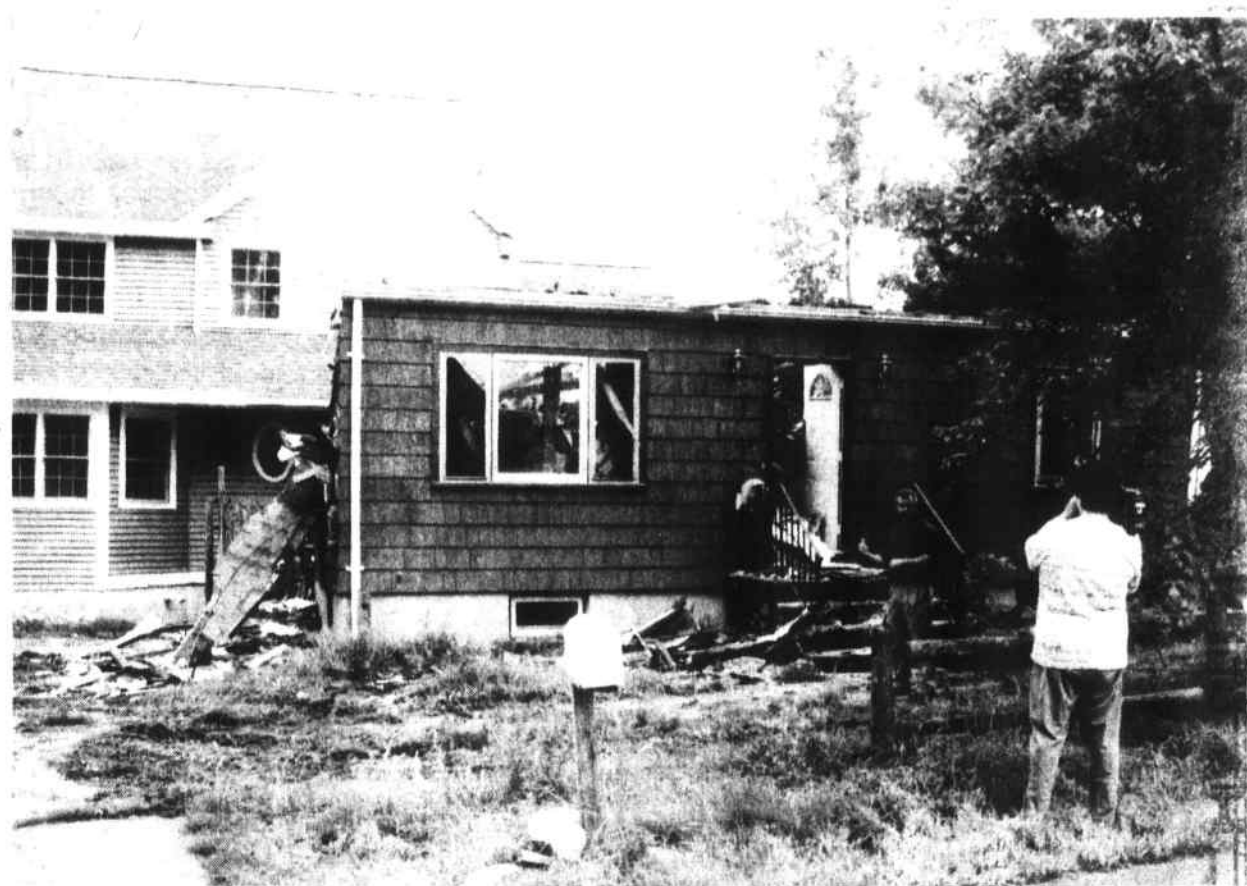

"At Shawsheen, I felt I was enhancing, rather than introducing project-based learning," Kingsley said. "I was impressed by the level of knowledge, the experience of the staff and their caring," he noted. Kingsley, a self-described "youth worker" for 20 years, has been a counselor, developer and teacher, and came to the Heller School at Brandeis, Center for Youth Communities to be able to continue a focus on youth development, particularly vulnerable youth. He is a graduate of Clarkson University with a B.S.E.E. and specialized in historic preservation for master's degree work at Boston University. It was while he worked with at-risk teens in Dorchester during a sum-

Shawsheen Institute participants also took part in any three of seven open sessions, most of which addressed technology in the educational setting. In the Drafting Technology lab oratory, participants learned how to operate the CAD system to design projects while in Graphic Arts they learned how to get connected from their PCs for photocopying and other digital uses. In the library, the digital camera, scanner, email and Internet use were explained, while in Commercial Art and Design, participants learned a number of application on Macintosh computers. Other sessions included demonstrations of the CCC software program for English, math and science; a review of MS Office applications; and a demonstration of using web pages in the classroom.

Kingsley said some of the typical aspects of project based learning also have the best chance of being retained by students. Statistics from the National Training Laboratories in Bethel, Maine show that the average retention rate is 90 percent for projects in which students teach others and where there is an immediate use of learning. All other methods are lower in their retention rate: practice by doing, 75 percent; discussion, 50 percent; demonstration, 30 percent; audiovisual, 20 percent; reading, 10 percent; and lecture, five percent.

Kingsley was brought to Shawsheen through the efforts of John McDermott, Assistant Superintendent, and a group of Shawsheen teachers who had attended a local School to Work program at Sun Microsystems where Kingsley had been a speaker.

THE TOWNSENDS HAVE A NEW HOUSE Carl and Connie Townsend have been living in a small house on the corner of Salem St. and Arlene Ave. for eight years with their four children, Ryan, Joshua, Rory and Connor. It was tight quarters for a family with four boys, so the Townsends built a new house in their back yard. The day came on Tuesday to tear down the house they had been living in and move into the new house. (Stu Neilson photo)

That's not an addition House torn down on Salem St.

by STU NEILSON
WILMINGTON - With video camera in hand, Carl watched as John Butt ripped the roof off Carl's house. It was a delicate operation. There was little room for error for a brand new house was only inches away from the one being torn down.

Carl and Connie Townsend have been living with another house in their backyard for months. Built by Carl, the new house is a welcome addition to the family. Many helpers, including Mike Welch and John Butt to the work. But an addition it is not.

Many people have watched the construction for months. Most, even neighbors, thought that the new house was a huge addition to the old. They were shocked on Tuesday as the backhoe did its work. Neighbor Sandra Curtin, who is active in WCTV, heard the crunching and rushed to the TV studio to get a video camera.

It has been months since Connie has had a kitchen with cabinets. The new house was built so close to the old one that part of the old kitchen had to be removed and the cabinets had to be torn out to allow the new house some room.

Some room it has. The two older boys have their own rooms, and the younger ones will later when they're older. Carl predicts that within a few weeks he will have a lovely landscaped lawn and a new driveway to accompany the new house. Connie is thrilled with the new house. "Six people with one bathroom! It's really a relief."

The old house was built by the Jackson Brothers back in 1953. It was one of the first in a development that spanned decades and 17 acres of the Harriman property at the head of Middlesex Ave. and Salem Street. Caleb Harriman had owned the old tannery in North Wilmington (where Dinette World is today) and had employed hundreds of people.

The Jacksons came to town in the late 40's and began building houses. Their name on a house meant quality construction. For decades Realtors would list a home's first good feature as, "Jackson Built."

But another Jackson Built house has gone by the wayside as it was replaced by another nearly three times the size for a family of six to spread its wings.

Tewksbury Senior Topics

TEWKSBURY - Those attending the Senior Center monthly dance are reminded that the hot and cold buffet will begin at 6:30 p.m. Then there will be dancing to the sounds of the "Perfect Match Band."

Please call the Senior Center if you have signed up for the "Country Shopping with Norma." The trip may have to be canceled due to the lack of interest.

The Wednesday night concert on the common will feature "Rick Barron and the Quavers" and their country western music. The concerts begin at 6:30 p.m.

As noted last week, oil painting and wood carving participants have been asked to sign up at the front desk if interested in taking classes this fall. If you have already done so earlier in the summer, please just check to see that your name is actually on the list.

Two new classes coming in September are Monday afternoon Japanese Bunka Embroidery at 1 p.m. and Tai Chi exercise class Friday mornings at 8:30. More information will be noted at a later date.

You'll also find an interest list on the same bulletin board regarding a program conducted by "Stroke Prevention of New England." This agency goes on site (i.e. Senior Center) and administers Ultrasound Health Screenings of Senior Citizens and other at-risk members of the community.

This team of medical professionals screen for stroke, abdominal aneurysms, peripheral artery disease and osteoporosis. Since these diseases rarely show symptoms, doctors are unable to routinely order these tests under the present health care system. Due to this fact, there would be an out of pocket fee for participants of $45 or $100 for three tests.

The goal of this preventative screening program is the early detection of potential health problems from diseases that leave lasting effects on so many unsuspecting lives.

If you think you would be interested in participating in such a program, place your name and telephone number on the list. The COA staff will contact you if and when such a screening is held.

Once again, Tewksbury seniors have been invited on a barge ride on the Merrimack River with refreshments served on shore. These early evening excursion will be held Tuesday, August 22. There will be a slight charge of $2 for this trip.

The Friends of the Elderly 3rd Annual Golf Connection Tournament will be held Monday, September 11, at the Andover Country Club. The cost is $125 per person and includes: a continental breakfast; green fees, cart, lunch and prizes. All proceeds from the Golf Connection will benefit the Senior Center Building Fund. For more information one may call Mary Ann Wareham at 851-3344.

The seniors are also planning a giant yard sale & senior version of the "Antique Roadshow" for Saturday, September 16. Table space is $10 per space and the event is held rain or shine. Now's the time to start gathering your wares as well as those valued pieces to be appraised by Arthur Bergeron. To reserve a space one may contact Carol Hazel or Linda Brabant at the Senior Center.

Tickets are still available on the following day trips: A visit to the Redhook Ale Brewery and the Lobster Barn in York on Monday, August 28 at $31 per person; a Boston Duck Tour and visit to Quincy Market with lunch on your own on Friday, September 8, at $23 per person (waiting list only); Rockingham Park on Monday, September 18 with luncheon at $18 per person (school bus); the Amesbury Playhouse to see "Fiddler on the Roof" on Sunday, September 24th, at $26 per person and Foxwood Casino on Thursday, September 28 at $21 per person (waiting list only).

She was employed with Century Reproductions and as a Home Health Aid in the Merrimack Valley Region for a number of years.

Born in Germany, Mrs. Caperci was the mother of William Caperci of Wilmington, Anthony Caperci of Nashua, N.H., and Margaret Raffaello of Lowell. She was the grandmother of four, Christopher, Jessica, Anthony, III and James. She also leaves two sisters Katrine and Theckler of Munich, Germany.

A funeral mass was celebrated Monday, August 14 at St. Thomas Church, Wilmington, followed by interment in Wildwood Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Nichols Funeral Home, Middlesex Avenue, Wilmington.

David W. Cremins

Member Seashore Trolley Museum, Kennebunkport, ME

TEWKSBURY - David W. Cremins, 58, a resident of Tewksbury for 32 years, died Friday evening, August 11, 2000 at his home in Tewksbury following a brief illness.

He was the husband of Eleanor J. (Armao) Cremins, with whom he celebrated their 37th wedding anniversary April 28.

Born in Stoneham June 21, 1942, he was the son of the late David J. and Edith (Taylor) Cremins. He attended Dorchester and Malden Schools and was graduated from Malden Vocational School.

Mr. Cremins served his country in the 5th Company Training Regiment of the United States Army National Guard at Fort Dix, New Jersey and was honorably discharged July 31, 1968 with the rank of private.

Prior to his retirement in 1997, he was employed as an elevator constructor by Beckwith Elevator Company. In addition, he was a member of the International Union of Elevator Constructors, Local #4 Allston, MA. He was a resident of Malden until moving to Tewksbury in 1968 and was a member of the Tewksbury - Wilmington B.P.O.E. #2070 and the Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club. Mr. Cremins enjoyed model railroading and was a member of the Sea Shore Trolley Museum of Kennebunkport, ME.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by two daughters, Pamela J. Brabant and her husband Richard of Colorado Springs, CO and Patricia A. Fay and her husband James of Methuen; his sister Eleanor Chase and her husband Stillman of Bradenton, FL; his brother John Cremins and his wife Debra (Shepard) of Arizona; three grandchildren, Jeanne Louise Fay, James Joseph Fay and Matthew Thomas Fay. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Prayers were offered Wednesday morning from the Farmer & Dee Funeral Home, Lee Street, Tewksbury, followed by burial in St. Mary Cemetery, Tewksbury. Memorial contributions to the Oncology Clinic at Winchester Hospital, Baldwin Park II, 7 Alfred St., Woburn, MA 01801 will be appreciated.

Edna F. Lowe

member of many Wilmington clubs and organizations

Edna F. Lowe, a long time resident, since 1971, passed away at Winchester Hospital on August 15th, after a brief illness.

Born in Malden, she was the daughter of Joseph Lowe and Zilda (Mace) Lowe.

Mrs. Lowe was a member of the Wilmington Congregational Church, the Wilmington Women's Club, the Friends of the Harnden Tavern historical preservation group and also a member of the Merrimack Valley Sweet Adelines. She participated in the activities of the A.I.M. Group of Wilmington.

Mrs. Lowe is survived by many close friends of long standing.

A memorial service will be held on Friday, August 18th, at 11:00 a.m. at the Wilmington Congregational Church, 220 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington. In lieu of flowers contributions in her member may be made to the Wilmington Congregational Church, 220 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, MA.

Arrangements by the Nichols Funeral Home of Wilmington.

Elsie M. Wesington past president Lexington Emblem Club

WILMINGTON - Elsie M. (Ryan) Wesington, a resident of Wilmington for the past 12 years, and formerly of Lexington, died at Woodbriar Nursing Home in Wilmington August 13, 2000 at 94 years of age.

Mrs. Wesington was a past president of the Lexington Emblem Club, a member of the Congregational Church of Wilmington, Access is Mandatory (AIM), of Wilmington, and Wilmington Senior Citizens.

Born in Canada, she was the widow of Alfred G. Wesington and the mother of Wallace G. of Lexington, Richard R. of So. Carolina, Clyde A. of Georgia, Clare Chapski of Dracut, and Robert E. of Wilmington and sister of Audrey Wesington of Arlington.

Twenty-two grandchildren, 18 great-grandchildren and a great-great-grandchild also survive.

Mrs. Wesington was also the mother of the late Albert Wesington.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wesington will be held at the Congregational Church of Wilmington, Middlesex Avenue Thursday, August 17 at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Miles Hall officiating, followed by burial in Wildwood Cemetery.

Funeral arrangements were under the direction of the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington.

Wilmington Senior Topics

WILMINGTON - Due popular demand, Tai Chi, a mind/body experience that promotes physical as well as mental health, will begin shortly at the Buzzell Senior Center. William Barron, a certified instructor and health educator, will lead the program. This activity, which focuses on movement in a slow and flowing way, is open to men and women who want to lower stress levels, increase energy and improve balance and mobility.

These movements are not strenuous, and there is no impact on joints or bones. In addition, they facilitate the feelings brought on by meditative breathing techniques, which are those of calmness and inner quiet. Tai Chi appears simple, but its benefits are complex.

On August 18, at 10 a.m., William Barron will give an overall description of what to expect during the class. So, if you want to improve your overall well being, you may want to give this ancient Chinese art a try.

On August 16, we will be having a movie on the large screen with popcorn and all the extras. So you'll be able to sit back and relax in an air conditioned room. If anyone has any suggestions they would like to see, feel free to mention them to Mary Lipski at the front desk.

As a reminder, if anyone is interested in assisting with the yard sale in September, this year, please contact Director Terri Marciello. We have started to collect items for this day. If anyone has anything that they would like to donate, please feel free to drop it by the Center.

Also, if anyone should have extra craft materials that they would like to donate to the Center, it would be greatly appreciated as we are getting ready for our annual Holiday Fair in November.

Special events this month:
August 16, Movie day, large screen, 1:30 p.m., movie to be announced.

August 18, Tai Chi Introduction Class, 10 a.m.

August 25, Sing-a-long Bud Gleason, 11 a.m. "Celebrate Summer Birthdays."

August 28, Signup for Bull Run Social of September 13.

Dues are due for Tewksbury Golden Age Club

TEWKSBURY - Golden Age membership for the years June 2000 to June 2002 are now due. There will be a person from the Membership Committee at the Senior Center every Tuesday and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 1 to 3 p.m. for your convenience. If you are unable to get to the Center please send a self addressed, stamped envelope with a check made out to the Golden Age Club and we will mail you your card.

New members are always welcomed. One must be 60 years of age and a resident of Tewksbury.

Our November trip to the White Mountains Resorts is mushrooming. Regardless what the brochure says, I would like to have those on the original list to make deposits by the 31st of August. This way, those waiting will have a chance to go if there are any cancellations. If there are enough names on the waiting list there is a possibility of another bus.

Our deepest sympathies to the families of our members Elsa Criscitello and Chet Ryan. They will be sadly missed.

Happy birthday and happy anniversary to all celebrating this month.

Our next meeting will be Tuesday, September 12 at 1:30 p.m. Bingo will be played following the meeting.

Rose McKenna, President
Tewksbury Golden Age Club

THANK YOU!

I wish to thank both the Fire and Police Departments of Wilmington in their quick response in the aid of my mother Olga Caperci.

THROUGH CHILDREN'S EYES

We humans carry knowledge that we presume no other animal possesses. That is, we know our lives here on earth are finite and that we shall all eventually perish. As the great thinker Voltaire once postulated, "The human race is the only one that knows it must die, and it knows this only through its experience. A child brought up alone and transported to a desert island would have no more idea of death than a cat or plant." The question then becomes "What do we do with this knowledge?" Do we use it to imbue our lives with more meaningful thoughts and behavior, or do we cower before death? Any race is made more meaningful by the finish line.

Life presents us with many choices to be made day in and day out. If you had the choice, wouldn't you prefer to lighten the burden on your family during their time of grief? Whether you prepay to lock in at current cost or devise a payment plan, family and friends will be much less burdened in their time of sorrow, and you will have the comfort of knowing that you will have the kind of final service that you specify. For assistance with preneed or current need services, call FARMER & DEE FUNERAL HOME, 16 Lee St. (851-7411) All faiths are welcome

Suzanne Sciarappa weds Philip D. Haefner

WILMINGTON - Suzanne Sciarappa, daughter of Michael and Nancy Sciarappa of Sherwood Road, Wilmington and Philip D. Haefner, III, son of Philip and Marjorie Haefner of Salem, exchanged marriage vows Sunday, May 28.

The Rev. Daniel E. Flaherty performed the ceremony before the altar of St. James Church in Salem.

The bride was radiant in a white satin, A-line gown, featuring a sweetheart neckline and a lace and sequined trimmed bodice. Her scalloped hemline, trimmed with matching sequins and lace was complemented by an illusion back dotted with rosettes at the waist, and extending into a sweeping cathedral train.

Her cathedral length, waterfall veil also featured pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade of rosette roses with Stephanotis.

Nanciann Conboy of Lowell, sister of the bride served as matron of honor while the bride's attendants included Tina Cianfrocca of Beverly, a close friend of the bride; Carol and Lesa Haefner, of Peabody, sisters-in-law of the groom; Kathy MacInnis of Tewksbury, a close friend of the bride, Lorraine Ronan of Billerica, also a close friend of the bride and Amy Scarpa of Tewksbury, cousin of the bride.

Over four score last year

Jimmy Fund Walk-a-thon looms on the horizon

Organizers hope to draw more from Tewksbury and Wilmington

Last year, residents from Tewksbury and Wilmington walked from Hopkinton to Boston in the 11th annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk.

With funding needs for cancer research on the rise, the Jimmy Fund is hoping to attract more walkers from Tewksbury and Wilmington for the September 24 event. The goal is for 8,000 walkers to raise more than $3.3 million through the one day event.

Dana-Farber Cancer Institute is a world renowned cancer research and treatment facility that cares for adults with all forms of cancer. The Jimmy Fund Clinic cares for children afflicted with cancer.

While individual walkers qualify to participate in the Walk by raising $100, walkers are being asked to "go the extra mile" and become a Pacesetter - a walker who raises $500 or more. Pacesetters receive special recognition at the finish line. They will also receive a special club t-shirt and be invited to a reception held in their honor in the spring.

"Almost everyone has been affected by cancer in one way or another," says Emily Swymer, director of the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk. "Either they have fought it themselves or had a family member or friend stricken by it. We're encouraging people to fight back by joining with their friends and neighbors in this fun, but important fundraising effort."

Walkers may chose to walk a half marathon (13.1 miles) that begins at Wellesley High School or they can join Jimmy Fund Clinic patients and their families in the three mile Patient/Family Walk that starts at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

The Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk is the only event, other than the Boston Marathon itself that is sanctioned by the Boston Athletic Association to use the historic 26.2 mile route. Over its 11 year history, the Walk has raised a total of $13.6 million for cancer care and research at world-renowned Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

The 12th Annual Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk begins at Hopkinton at 7 a.m., in Wellesley at 11 a.m. and at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute at 2 p.m. All walkers finish at Copley Square where they will be met with music, food and a post-walk program featuring speakers from Dana-Farber Cancer Institute.

For more information on how to join the fight against cancer by participating in the Boston Marathon Jimmy Fund Walk on Sunday, September 24, or how to join the Pacesetters, call Walk organizers at (800) 632-3562 or visit www.jimmyfund.org. Participants can register and make financial contributions on line by visiting the "Events" section then "Marathon Walk" on the Web site.

The Best Game in Town

By ED LARKIN
Outdoors Columnist

The return of the striped bass stocks to the coastal Massachusetts waters is the success story of the decade. Over fished for years, it was considered pure luck just to hook up with the odd fish during a summer outing prior to the 1990s.

A sound fisheries management plan and backing from the sports fishing community now guarantees a healthy population of stripers for three-season fishing.

Anyone can become a striper fisherman. A quick trip to the local bait and tackle store can get you started. A basic striper rod and reel is less than $100 with some tackle included. Best of all, your striper rod and reel can be used for several different fishing situations.

It is also smart to begin with basic equipment, so you can become familiar with how to use the gear and practice casting before you hit the water. A standard set up is a 7 to 10 foot rod with a spinning reel filled with 200 yards of 20 to 30 pound test line for shore fishing.

Most shore areas in Massachusetts have rocky structure that will hold stripe bass. Stripers are also found around jetties and inlets. Tides and migrating baitfish should direct the striper fisherman.

At different times of the season, strip bass will favorite certain bait over others. In the spring, they chase herring and move on to pogies as the water warms. As the season advances, they also will readily take bloodworms, clams, and crabs. Eels are especially good at nighttime.

Some tips and advice, if you fish from the shoreline it is better to fish the incoming tide. Although, you can catch stripers pretty much anytime of the day and during high or low tides. But, like all fishing, certain conditions improve your chance of succeeding. The trick is to understand your gear and to seek advice from the local bait and tackle store. Learn to tie three or four basic knots. The improved clinch knot, the uni-knot, and the spider hitch. These knots are easy to learn and can be used for several light tackle situations.

Always seek advice from local anglers on conditions, hot fishing spots and what baits are working. Local knowledge is key to hooking into fish. I find most fishermen are willing to share tips and lots of time, some bait to get you started. The big department stores will save you some money on gear, but they don't offer advice. Local bait and tackle stores are run by fishermen for fishermen. They generally provide good advice and service, which is what keeps customers coming back.

The last and most important reason, if you buy equipment from a local store, when you need repairs, they can mostly likely repair your rod or reel on site in a short amount of time.

Stripers can also be caught on lures and plugs. Live bait is by far the most productive method of catching fish. Please respect limits and toss the schoolies back for another day.

Halloween Day caps Glen Road playground

Although last week was the last full week of Playground at the Glen Road, playgrounders still had an awesome time participating in the activities planned. Monday, August 7 was finally Halloween Day.

The playground was filled with witches, black cats, clowns, and even a headless horseman as both playgrounders and leaders dressed up in their best Halloween costumes. Throughout the day all playgrounders were invited to take part in special fun events, like Pin the Antlers on Bullwinkle, Chubby Bunny, and Guess the Number of Candy Corns in the Jar.

On Tuesday, August 8, playground was not held because of the annual family field trip to Crane's Beach in Ipswich. Both Wilmington playgrounds combined once again to participate in the gigantic sand sculpture competition at the beach.

other day. Because of combine efforts, the striped bass is enjoying a wonderful come back. In order to maintain this level of fishing we most continue to heed regulation and size limitations.

News You Can Use

The United Fly Tyers will be back in business starting on September 7. After their annual summer sabbatical, the United Fly Tyers will begin their 41st year of teaching fly-tying. If you would like to learn to tie flies or would just like to swap fishing stories the United Fly Tyers are for you.

They also provide tools and materials for first timers and a speaking program at the meetings. The cost of membership is $20 per year and they meet at the Burlington K of C. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. on September 7. Admission is $10.00 for non-members and $5.00 for members, 15 and under are admitted free. For more information call: 781.272.4142.

This year's theme was "Millennium Miracles," and the playground made the Boston Red Sox win the World Series in the future. The sand sculpture was of Fenway Park, complete with the Green Monster and the Citgo sign. Across the infield were the words "World Champs" and playgrounders sat around the sculpture acting as fans watching the game.

This year Wilmington won Best design! Afterward, everyone had fun either lying on the beach or playing in the water. Lindsay Bruno came as the playground's own life-guard as well. Overall, it was a perfect, awesome day.

On Wednesday, August 9 all that would be heard at playground was "Bingo!" since that day's activity was Bingo. Playgrounders had a blast playing the game, and those who won were treated to a small prize.

On Thursday, August 10 the playground was empty again, but this time because it was a day of fun in the sun at Silver Lake. Last Thursday was our best beach day of the summer, and the playgrounders had a blast either in the water or participating in the volleyball tournament.

Friday, August 11 was the playground's last field trip of the summer. This time the playgrounders traveled to Chunky's Movie Theater in Pelham, N.H. Those who attended the field trip were treated to pizza, soda, and ice cream, as well as the movie "The Kid." On the way out of the theater, each playgrounder was given a special Pokemon card from the Chunky's employees. Everyone had a blast!

Congratulations to the Playgrounders of the Week last week, Connor Brennan and Kristen Breslin, and to the Volunteers of the week last week, Brian Dalton and Mike St. Aubin. Also, big thank you to Crane's Beach in Ipswich, Lindsay Bruno and the other life-guardians at Silver Lake, and Chunky's in Pelham, N.H. for their help in making last week so awesome.

Arts and Crafts tops
Woburn Street playground

Monday, August 7 the Woburn Street Playgrounders gathered for a day of arts and crafts and made colorful friendship bracelets.

On Tuesday it was 90 degrees, hot and humid and the Wilmington Recreation Department was heading to Ipswich for the Annual Family Sand Sculpture at Crane's Beach. The youngsters were in charge of designing a millennium miracle. Our playgrounders pulled off an award for "Best Design." The miracle was Fenway Fantasy, for if and when the Red Sox win the World Series.

The playgrounders returned on Wednesday for a prize winning morning of Bingo. We had many winners but the Katie's, Kate and Katelyn's were on a roll. Congratulations to all our Bingo winners.

Thursday we returned to Silver Lake to meet up with the Glen Road playgrounders for another spiking, digging, intense volleyball tournament.

Friday was a new field trip for the Wilmington Playground program. We crossed the border and headed to Chunky's in Pelham, N.H. What can be better than Bruce Willis as your star actor in "The Kid?" and two slices of pizza. The best was yet to come as the playgrounders exited Chunky's as they all received Pokemon cards. Needless to say the new field trip was a big hit with four stars.

Celebrity hockey tournament, August 19

Lowell Lock Monsters Assistant Coach Steve Stirling will be hitting the ice along with Terry O'Reilly, Rick Middleton, Brad Park and other hockey legends, as well as present Bruins Sergei Samsonov, Kyle McLaren, and Byron DaFoe, at the First Scoutsearch.com Charity Hockey Tournament and Celebrity Game at the Whittemore Center, University of New Hampshire, August 19.

Stirling spent five years in the AHL before beginning his coaching career at Babson College in 1978. He held the head coaching position at Providence College guiding them to the 1965 championship game, and was the athletic director at Babson College prior to joining the Lock Monsters. The Boston University graduate captained the 1971 Terriers NCAA Championship Team.

Proceeds from the tournament are to benefit the NHL's Hockey Fights Cancer, and the Celebrities for Charity Foundation.

Louie the Lock Monster will also be present, providing additional fun and excitement throughout the day.

For more information go to www.scoutsearch.com. Tickets are available through TicketMaster for $22.50, or through the UNH Whittemore Center Box Office for $18.00.

Referee class offered by TYSL

The Tewksbury Youth Soccer League (TYSL) will be holding a Soccer Referee Instruction Class for players who want to referee Under seven through Under 15 games during the fall season.

ROBERT H. CAVANAGH, JR. OF WOBURN finds peace and tranquility at Moosehead Lake. Find out what an interesting and productive life this gentleman has led.

Woburn's Robert Cavanagh Life's Reflection

By JIM GOLDSMITH

In the chilly, brisk days of autumn when maples put on a warm red coat a tall, heavysset man looks back at his life with nostalgia, and a longing to relive the "good old days" when he was tying fishing flies which he sold to customers around the world. Alas and alack those days, and his youth will never come back.

This talented musician, hunter, fisherman, husband and father is reluctantly content remembering the past. The harsh reality is infirmities have crippled his lust for life and adventure. Swirling somewhere in the mists of yesterday over deep pools of remembrance lie another life. Deep pools in northern New Hampshire where Atlantic salmon left to seek the turbulent, green-blue ocean as young fish. Upon maturing and changing color they return to their home in fresh water pools where they spawn and die.

This is a story of birth, childhood, hopes, dreams and old age. Where sunrises are as promising and bright as youth, and we think the sun will never set. All too soon we suffer the slings, arrows and pain of outrageous infirmity. Robert H. Cavanagh, Jr.'s youth was perhaps similar to yours. Let's join him for a lifetime of fun, adventure, growth and remembrance.

About The Towns by Phyllis Nissen

Ramping it up in Stoneham

"The Stoneham Skate Park which is located off of Pomeworth Street on the lower side of Pomeworth Park, is one of Frank Scarpa's favorite places to go," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Scarpa, the father of a son who skateboards, estimates that he has spent more than 200 hours at the park since it opened a little more than a year ago. As a parent and citizen, he volunteers to maintain a lot of the responsibilities of the park. He alternates with other parents in opening the park in the morning and closing it at night.

"Scarpa says, 'I feel like I'm missing out if I don't go down there and see the kids and talk to them for half an hour or so.'

"The town has definitely been supportive of the park, says Scarpa. He feels that all five Selectmen have been behind what the park has to offer. He especially feels that Jeff Nutting, the Town Administrator, has been a major player.

"Without question, Jeff has served the park above and beyond his position as Town Administrator," Scarpa says. "He has organized every detail of instruction, from the tar that has been put down to the repairs made with the fences. He has provided locks and trash barrels, he has repaired the ramps, and he has supplied plastic and tarps to protect the property during the wintertime. He has even made personal visits to go see the kids and the neighbors around the park."

"Nutting is not alone in a job well done. The Department of Public Works has been integral in keeping the skateboard park in motion too. "The DPW and their workers have done a terrific job with the upkeep and the improvements of the park," Scarpa says...."

"Clearing the air in Wilmington

"The air has been cleared on the issue of whether or not smoking should be allowed in

Clean living tops the charts local restaurants," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"At the Town Meeting, residents voted in favor of Article 32, which proposed that smoking in Wilmington eateries be stamped out once and for all.

"I have as much right to walk through a restaurant without inhaling secondhand smoke," responded an audience member who stood at a microphone to refute a few calls for smokers' rights.

"The majority of Town Meeting members agreed. Effective September 8, 2000, smoking will be prohibited at all local restaurants. The smoke-out will extend beyond Wilmington dining locations to include establishments that are open to the public and also serve food.

"Anybody who does light up a cigarette in a restaurant after said date will have a $50 fine dragged out of their wallet. The owner of the restaurant will also see $50 from his or her own pocket go up in smoke.

"The smoking article was approved 98-43.

"Chuck DiPasquale, who owns and runs Rocco's Restaurant on Route 38, attended the Town Meeting. It was clear by the scenarios that he presented that he could foresee the effects that such a law would have on his business.

"I have 100,000 patrons who come to Rocco's every year, said DiPasquale, 'and I haven't had any complaints about smoking yet.'

DiPasquale suggested an amendment to the article that proposed that restaurants with 100 or more seats be permitted to allow smoking provided that such activity is kept at a level of 30%. Another part of his amendment suggested that restaurants with less than 100 seats have smoking prohibited from their premises.

"DiPasquale's amendment was favored by 50 Town Meeting members, but it was ultimately defeated by 90 individuals who opposed it."

Reaching right out in Reading

"Seven years ago, Reading which her students would write reflectively on their lives.

"That really spoke to my spirit," said Davis of personal essay writing, something which she has done herself. "I was writing to understand relationships and past events in my life."

"I ask my students to write reflectively. It is not enough to just tell the story. I want them to reflect on it, about how they feel now," she added.

"That first night, as she shared her own experience with writing with others, Davis saw the power of reflective writing break loose.

"While her students, an assorted group of seniors who had signed up for the course, busily wrote a simple exercise in reflection, one of them began to get very emotional.

"During that first class, one of the students wrote about the guilt she had carried since she was five years old about her sister's death," Davis remembered. "She had had this guilt her entire life."

"When Davis realized how much the personal essay writing had helped to release some of

Have your older U.S. Savings Bonds stopped earning interest?

Many Savings Bonds issued prior to 1970 have reached final maturity and are no longer earning interest. By visiting www.savingsbonds.gov, you can check out the Savings Bond Calculator—a FREE program that tells you the current value of your bonds, when they increase in value, and when they stop earning interest.

Savings Bonds purchased prior to December 1965	stop earning interest 40 years from the issue date.
Savings Bonds and Notes purchased after November 1965	stop earning interest 30 years from the issue date.

If your Savings Bonds are no longer earning interest, you should redeem them at your local financial institution. Or, you may exchange them for Series HH Bonds for up to one year past final maturity and continue to defer the accrued interest for federal income tax purposes.*

So check it out, and put your money back to work.

Schooner Festival Labor Day weekend in Gloucester

Many of the ships that were in Boston for SailBoston2000 will be in Gloucester on Labor Day weekend for the annual Gloucester Schooner Festival. Fifteen big schooners up to 156' long, and 60 smaller sailing vessels and the splendid square-rigged Coast Guard training ship EAGLE will be in the harbor, escorted by the top-of-the-line Navy destroyer USS PETERSON.

The Festival begins on the evening of Friday, September 1, with a Welcome Reception aboard the schooner ADVENTURE. ADVENTURE is the host vessel for the Festival and will conduct an Open House on both Saturday and Sunday. Races for Traditional Small Craft kick off Saturday's activities at 1 pm.

The Yankee Fish Fry starts Saturday evening's activities (3 pm to 7 pm), followed at 7 pm by Gloucester's famed Lighted Boat Parade along the Annisquam River into Gloucester's Inner Harbor. The day will be capped off by the great Fireworks Display over Gloucester Harbor at 9:30 pm.

On Sunday, September 3, the big schooners will leave their moorings at 9 am and parade out of the harbor past the Fisherman Statue on Stacy Boulevard headed for the 11 am start off the Dog Bar breakwater.

The Mayor's Race of the big schooners is the high point of the Festival. Three classes of schooners will compete for separate trophies.

Monday, September 4, is reserved as a "make-up" day, to be used only in the event of the postponement of racing on Saturday or Sunday because of inclement weather.

Further information can be obtained from the Chamber's Executive Director, Michael Costello, at 978-283-1601.

US school children have sad lack of exercise

Many US schools no longer offer daily physical education, despite the fact that the vast majority of parents want such programs for their youngsters in elementary, middle or high school, according to results of a new survey.

"Unfortunately, most school districts across the nation are not living up to parental expectations or public health requirements," said Carl Gabbard, president of the national Association for Sport and Physical Education, which sponsored the survey. "Indeed",

Gabbard said, "5% of children receive no physical education at all."

In the survey, more than 1,000 US adults 18 years of age and over and 500 teens aged 12 to 17 were interviewed. The investigators found that even though 81% of parents of school-age children said they wanted their children to receive daily physical education at school, just 44% of youngsters actually engaged in school-based physical activity on a daily basis.

US Surgeon General Dr. David Satcher said he is "alarmed by the trend we have seen over the last 20 years of decreasing physical education requirements in public schools across the country. As a nation, we are becoming increasingly less active in our lifestyles at home, at school and at work."

According to Gabbard, parents "believe their kids lack interest, do not have enough time or spend too much time watching television (57%) or playing computer games (59%). Their children, on the other hand, say they do not have the time (24%), spend too much time doing homework (19%) or lack interest (13%). "Most parents say they place limits on the amount of time they allow their children to engage in 'couch potato' pursuits such as watching TV or playing video games, according to the survey.

"Prevention is the key to the future," Satcher said. "We must learn how to prevent obesity and promote healthy lifestyles. Our Schools have a responsibility to educate both minds and bodies."

Summer cooking can mean your food is spoiled

Ah, summer. The days are long and the weather is warm. The smell of shish kabob, roasted corn and potato salads is in the air. It's time for backyard barbecues and family picnics, but proper handling of food can help avoid food poisoning and infections this summer.

Proper food handling, both at picnics and at home, can help protect you and your family from food-borne illnesses and infection. According to Kimberly Pierce, R.D., a registered dietitian at Hallmark Health's Lawrence Memorial Campus, "Bacteria grows at temperatures between 40 and 140 degrees. To decrease chance of infection you need to prepare, store and save your foods under 40 degrees or above 140 degrees." Pierce provides some tips to ensure safe summer meals.

Storage - It's "cool"

Pack the cooler with ice cubes or no-leak, non-toxic gel packs. Keep meat and poultry, especially if raw, away from other foods by placing in a separate leak-proof container either at the bottom of the cooler, or preferably, in a separate cooler to avoid bacteria-containing juices from leaking onto other foods or onto rummaging hands. If using ice cubes to keep meat fresh, do not reuse them for beverages.

To help keep your cooler "cool," transport it in your car rather than the trunk, and keep it closed tightly in a shaded area.

LICE They head Back-To-School

Lice products containing pesticides have been getting a lot of negative press recently. The pesticides are not safe and are proving to be very dangerous. The pesticide cure is much worse than the lice infestation.

Many children have become sick from the treatments, which are believed to have led to learning disabilities, physical impairment (such as cancer and blindness) and even death.

And although the pesticide treatment is causing harm to humans, lice are gradually becoming immune to this conventional method of extermination.

A revolutionary, non-toxic and pesticide free enzyme solution had been developed. Enzymes are very effective in eliminating head lice, body lice, scabies and crabs. (The solution actually works on almost all insects.)

Enzymes are used safely in cleaning solutions such as contact lens cleaners and pool supplies. The combination of enzymes, including Protease, Lipase, Cellulase, and Amylase, has proven to safely eliminate most insects. These enzymes will not harm humans, animals or the environment.

How the enzymes work is quite amazing and interesting. The enzymes cause the exoskeletons of the bugs to become "unglued" and fall apart. In a way it "digests" the insects. It also loosens the eggs and nits, which the adults have laid. This causes the eggs and nits to fall away easily and not allow the young to hatch.

Lice will not become immune to enzymes. Enzymes are used in the insect's systems to aid in their growing and molting process. Since the enzymes are already in their systems, but not in such a large dose, lice cannot build up a resistance. They would have to become immune to themselves.

The enzymes can be found in Lice Arrest. The enzymes are exclusive and a patent is pending on the use of these enzymes.

To find Lice Arrest call Heartland Products, Inc. at 1-888-772-2345.

Resource room seeks volunteers

The American Cancer Society's collaborative Cancer Resource Room with New England Medical Center provides cancer patients and their families with resources for cancer information and its treatments.

A Volunteer Manager is urgently needed to supervise and coordinate Cancer Resource Room volunteers. Volunteers are also needed to staff the resource Room in two-to-four hour shifts between 9 am and 5 pm weekdays.

The Cancer Resource Room Volunteer Manager will ensure smooth operation of the center through volunteer recruitment and training and coordination of volunteer schedules and special projects. Volunteers will be responsible for guiding patients and their family members through support groups and cancer resource materials such as books, videos, brochures and computer information. Hospital volunteer orientations will be provided by the American Cancer Society and New England Medical Center.

To volunteer or for more information about the Cancer Resource Room, please call Ellen at the American Cancer Society at 617-556-7415. Cancer information is available in English and Spanish through the American Cancer Society's 24-hour information line at 1-800-ACS-2345 or through the Internet at www.cancer.org.

DID YOU KNOW?

- ◆ The need for blood is unending, yet only about 5% of the population donates blood.
- ◆ One single donation may help at least two, and possibly three or more patients in need.
- ◆ A heart or liver transplant recipient may require more than 50 units of blood.
- ◆ To maintain an optimal blood supply in the New England Region, 1,100 donations must be received daily.
- ◆ Blood is a medicine that cannot be manufactured. It only comes from health people who generously donate.

AUDITIONS FOR "THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK"

Auditions for the Burlington Player's production of "The Diary of Anne Frank" are Tuesday and Wednesday, August 29 and 30 at 7 pm at the Burlington Players' Park Playhouse. For more information and directions call 781-229-2649. The Park Playhouse is located off Rte 128 (95) and Winn Street in Burlington and is handicapped accessible.

Rick Steward directs "The Diary of Anne Frank". Eleven performances are scheduled November 3-18. The show requires three women 20-50, two teen girls 13-17, one teen boy about 16 and four men in age range from 30 to 60. Characters include Anne Frank, her father, mother and sister Margot the Van Daans (Mr. and Mrs. Van Dann and son Peter), Mr. Kraler, Mr Dussel and Mr. Frank's assistant Miep. Auditions are readings from the script and no appointments are necessary.

"The Diary of Anne Frank" won th Pulitzer Prize for Drama, the Tony Award and the New York Critics Circle Award the Best Play, and virtually every other theatre award of the 1955-56 season. Walter Kerr of the New York Herald Tribune said, "The precise quality of th eplay is the quality of glowing, ineradicable life- life in its warmth, its wonder, and its wild and flaring humor. Frances Goodrich and Albert Hackett have fashioned a wonderfully sensitive narrative out of the real-life legacy left us by a spirited and straightforward Jewish girl.

The Burlingotn Players are an all-volunteer, adult community theater and all auditions are open. Volunteers for technical and production work are very welcome and mentoring is available for those with limited experience. For more information call 781-229-2649.

30TH ANNUAL NEWPORT INTERNATIONAL BOAT SHOW

Each year boating enthusiasts have an opportunity to support Hospice Care of Rhode Island by participating in the Hospice Regatta, scheduled for Saturday, September 16.

For the past several years, the Newport International Boat Show has been a sponsor of the regatta Managers of the Newport International Boat Show, Newport Exhibition Group (NEG), offer two Boat Show tickets to each boat that signs up by the registration deadline. In addition, as an effort to promote boating as a family activity, NEG provides the event's "Family Trohy", which recognizes the boat with the most family crewmembers on board during the race.

Hospice Care of Rhode Island Regatta spokesperson, Sally Phillips states, "This race is one of nineteen qualifying races for the national Hospice Alliance Championship which will take place in Ft. Lauderdale in 2001. Thousand of people and companies such as the Newport Exhibition Groups, donate time and funding to this network of regattas in order to benefit hospice patients." Performing under the banner Forward with Scotland's Past, Battlefield Band mixes the old songs and tunes with new self-penned material, playing them on a unique fusion of ancient and modern instruments: bagpipes, synthesizers, fiddles, guitars, citterns, flutes, accordion, whistles, bouzouki and bodhran (drum). Their most recent recording, entitles Leaving Friday Harbor, was released by Rounder/Temple in the fall of 1999 and includes guitarist and vocalist Davy Seele, who recently left the band for health reasons.

WEDNESDAY/THURSDAY, AUGUST 16, 17, 2000-PAGE S-5

The album, which is filled with mostly original material and a few traditional tunes, won Crossroads Magazine's Gold Award for Best Celtic Album of the Year. It follows the band's critically acclaimed Rain, Hail or Shine (1998) and stellar live album Across the Borders (1997), both released on Rounder/Temple Records.

Founded by a group of friends in 1969, and named after the Battlefiel section of Glasgow, Battlefield Band has seen many lineup changes during the past thirty years. Offbeat humor and the infusion of new members with fresh ideas have helped Battlefield weather the tpyes of personnel shakeups that have collapsed other bnnds.

GRANTS FOR FREE ELMS AVAILABLE

Communities may now apply for grants that will supply free American Liberty Elms from the nonprofit Elm Research Institute, Westmoreland, N.H., it was announced today.

The institute has contacted foundations and corporations which have agreed to provide grants in the amount of $500 or $1000 per community. Towns that apply and are accepted in the grant progrm will receive either three or six disease-resistant American Liberty elms, four to six feet tall.

"The trees are for immediate planting in public places as an incentive for residents to donate funds to start a nursery of smaller elms, with the goal of restoring elms locally on a large scale. Each donor will have an elm growing in the nursery in his or her name. This brand new approach immediately places larger elms out on the street where residence can appreciate the way elm restoration will enhance their community. That will generate contributions to a nursery star-up. Communities and volunteer groups who want to apply for the grants should contact Elm Research Institute. 1-800-367-3567

Middlesex East Sports Athletes & Activities

BY PAUL FEELY

MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA QUESTION: What three NHL teams play their home games within 30 miles of each other? Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•With four points (two goals and two assists) on Sunday, READING'S SEAN COLLINS was second in the Scoring Leaders category in this year's 28th annual Hockey Night in Boston Summer Showcase of Stars at the start of this week. He was just two points behind the leader, Ben Murphy of the Merrimack Valley team.

•STONEHAM'S TIMOTHY HORGAN, a member of the varsity ice hockey and baseball teams and a recipient of the coach's award in baseball at Brewster Academy, has graduated from that school and will attend the University of Southern Maine in Portland.

•There are quite a few new inductees to the WINCHESTER SPORTS FOUNDATION HALL OF FAME. They are: EDWARD BARTLETT, ANTHONY DIAPELLA, FRANK DIMAMBRO, JOSEPH DONLON, STEPHEN POWERS, ROBERT NUTILE, AND VANDY FRENCH. Both Bartlett and Diapella were honored posthumously.

•Sign up now for the WOMEN'S NINE-HOLE GOLF LEAGUE to be held at the HILLVIEW COUNTRY CLUB in North Reading. The league is currently underway. Prizes are awarded to each division for first, second and third, low gross, low net, and last place. Scores are calculated using the league point system. A weekly newsletter will be distributed. The cost of the program is $115. Interested participants can register by calling the Reading Recreation Department at 942-9075 or by stopping by Town Hall in Reading at 16 Lowell Street.

•Several locals were members of the MERRIMACK VALLEY TWISTERS, a 14-and-under team of girls which took the Massachusetts ASA A Division championship recently. The locals on the roster were WILMINGTON'S SHANNON FAHEY and KRISTI MARSH, JEN ELWELL, KATIE PETROS, KIM ACETO, JENNA BRISTOL, LINDSEY CULITY, AND DANIELLE DELPONTE, ALL OF TEWKSBURY.

•Need some clues to help out with the above-mentioned trivia question? One of the teams is the New Jersey Devils.

•NORTH READING'S JUSTIN SCHAEFFER, an outfielder/pitcher for the Lightning Baseball team, helped his team take a silver medal in the AAU 13 and under National Championship Tournament in Kinston, NC. He hit .231 at the tourney, while allowing only two earned runs over 7 1/3 innings, picking up a save in the process.

•The second annual FRIENDS FIGHTING BREAST CANCER (FFBC) golf tournament at the Hillview Country Club on Monday, August 21 is once again sold out, but tickets for the dinner following the event at 6 pm are available at

Don't forget cooler weather is coming

The kids usually like to wear something brand new on the first day of school. But while shopping, don't forget the cooler weather later on. Some picks to pick:

— Leather is as desirable for the schoolhouse set as it is for grownups. A boy's black leather jacket ($150) from Lands' End could be one of his first investment pieces.

— The young biker can capture the look with a boy's "pleather" motorcycle jacket ($34) and techno pants ($26), both at The Children's Place.

— Also at the Children's Place is a colorful and versatile girl's plaid poncho ($16), fringed and with a stand-up collar.

— Keep warm with layers when the leaves fly. Start with a thermal henley ($22), add a plaid flannel shirt ($23), and top with a sport fleece vest ($25) — all from OshKosh B'Gosh. Though aimed at boys, these items can be worn by girls, too.

— A variation on OshKosh B'Gosh's trademark coverall look is a girl's denim apron dress ($27) with contrasting chest pocket and ties. Older girls will go for the vintage rose top with flower print bell sleeves ($19), paired with denim flare pants edged with braided floral edging ($32), both from OKBG's Genuine Girl line.

— Another take on denim is a girl's front-pocket jumper with floral embroidery tracing the hemline ($28-$30) from Healthtex. The same treatment is offered in denim pants ($25-$27).

— The sweater girl at your house can make a fashion statement with a classic cotton funnel neck ribbed sweater ($29) from Lands' End. She could wear it with capri pants ($28) or perhaps the ingenious convertible skirt ($26), which lets her choose long or short with the flick of a zipper.

— Cargo shorts ($26) or cargo climber pants ($32) from Lands' End have those commodious pockets for boys to stash all those mysterious gizmos they like to collect. Top either with the shoulder stripe rugby shirt ($29.50) or a long-sleeve T-shirt ($12).

— Have it all in one with Timberland's 3-in-1 Zip Off Pants ($88), a cargo style which zips off below or above the knee for two short lengths. The lower sections zip together to form a carrying bag for the upper sections and other belongings.

— Nylon streetwear pants with contrast trims by Joe Boxer have zips that turn long pants into shorts. Continue the theme with a fleece top with sleeves that zip off to become a vest. More versatility still with a reversible shirt or jacket — a blue flannel shirt jacket can be turned over to an orange quilted jacket. Pricing for the Joe Boxer line is in the $16-$40 range.

— Dorm dwellers will appreciate the cozy toes offered by Hush Puppies' line of College Clogs ($45), which feature color logos of 24 top colleges or universities in the United States. The clogs are water-resistant suede with thick rubber outsoles and can be worn outside, too.

School Notes

by Phyllis Nissen

The associate principal remembers, in Burlington

"Leaving Burlington High School is not going to be easy for Otto Conardi," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"He is a man of old-fashioned values and strong will."

"A Burlington resident, Conardi attended his final graduation ceremony as associate principal. He will have served 39 years in the local system."

"Technically, that was my last day (June 30)," said Conardi, in a telephone interview. "That marks the end of the administrative contractual year."

"But for the most part, I will be in and out," said Conardi, "putting a few things to rest and cleaning up junk I have collected over four decades."

"Those 'things,' Conardi said, were 'some scheduling matters for kids' and helping out with interviews for possible replacements."

"People tell me I look young and act young, and I feel young," said Conardi. "And I attribute that to the kids. Seeing them perform on the athletic fields, that gives me enthusiasm. The kids have done that for me."

"I've made some great friends in this job, between the administrators, faculty, and kids," Conardi said. "That is what I will miss the most."

"Conardi was asked how he feels about retirement."

"I'm quite apprehensive," he answered. "Remember, I've been working since the age of 14."

"And he says he was brought up under the supervision of the grandmother from Italy."

"I was taught nothing is for free, nothing comes easily," said Conardi. "I'm from a background where you worked steady, worked hard, and worked long."

"Conardi grew up in the North End of Boston, and he recalled his first job, as a stoker at the old Mystic Valley Foundry in Somerville."

"I have a long history of work, and I love it," said Conardi....

The Superintendent speaks in Wakefield

"The School Committee approved a new calendar for the school year starting in September and in less than twenty-four hours controversy emerged," notes the Wakefield Superintendent in the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"The headline in a local paper blamed teachers for the fact that school would start after Labor Day. I wonder why it is so easy to blame teachers so often? We did have a good experience this year with starting school before Labor Day, but frankly it worked well because Labor Day was the latest it could be. This year's calendar worked out well also, because we had no snow days and therefore we got out of school on June 16, the earliest we have gotten out of school for years. By the way graduation was held on Sunday, June 11.

"Now it is true that teachers have some say in school calendar decision by contract, but they don't need to be blamed. The teachers negotiated this privilege fairly and squarely long before I came to Wakefield. School has started after Labor Day every year but once in recent history."

"I also was immediately questioned about the fact that we scheduled school on Friday, November 10. How could we do that when Veteran's Day is on Saturday, November 11. Well, I sincerely believe we can do more to recognize and honor veterans by having school and holding programs that honor the contributions veterans have made to our country."

"I believe the benefits that education can offer around the holiday far outweighs most of the benefits from activities kids will be involved in on a day off. We will also have some difficulty with several of our employee groups by holding school on November 10 because of specific holiday benefits they enjoy by contract, but I believe we can still have a much more meaningful day than having school on a late June day when the temperature is 90's. By the way, at least seven surrounding towns will have school on November 10 as well."

"The 2000-2001 calendar also reduces the number of early release days from 9 this year, to only 4 next year. We also standardized the release time on those dates. Both of these adjustments were made after parents expressed legitimate concerns about the current practice."

"While release days cause some inconvenience for parents, I would like to convince you of the importance of providing quality time to in-service and professionally develop our staff. Business has long understood the value of appropriate planning time and professional development. It is no less important in education...."

The people deliberate in Lynnfield

"The Lynnfield Middle School's academically talented program got a stay of execution as the School Committee unanimously voted to reconsider their vote of cutting the program and reinstated nearly $32,000 into the proposed operating budget for it," notes the "Lynnfield Villager."

"At their March 21 meeting, the School Committee voted 3-2 to eliminate the academically talented program as part of nearly $93,000 in cuts to the operating budget. The cuts were made as an act of 'good faith' to the taxpayers.... Committee members Dorothy Presser and Pamela Scantileles voted against the original cut, while George Rockas, James Dillon and Chairman Janice Confalone were for it.

"Superintendent of Schools Dr. Richard Palermo said the reinstatement of the program shouldn't cost the taxpayers any extra money as funding for the program can be provided through money saved due to leaves of absence and resignations.

"Palermo said the Budget Subcommittee of the School Committee asked him to look into the number of requests for leaves of absences and resignations that had been made during the past year, and how much those teachers were making.

"Palermo said his research indicated the average salary of the teachers requesting leaves of absence or resigning was approximately $49,000 a year. Palermo said he is confident those positions can be filled with competent help at a lower salary and the money saved can be put towards paying for the academically talented program.

"Committee member Dorothy Presser noted very few middle schools in the state have pull-out academically talented programs such as the one in Lynnfield. In fact approximately 98 percent of the districts that did at one point don't anymore.

"The Committee discussed the possibility of restoring the academically talented students to the mainstream and raising the standards for everyone.

Late Summer fun ideas for kids

The summer vacation is only half over, but moms, dads, babysitters and caregivers are already hearing the familiar lament from their kids "there's nothing to do". The National Coalition for Educational and Cultural Programs, Inc. (NCECP) has some ideas.

Have a bag full of "summer fun" on hand and make it available whenever the kids start moping. They'll have hours of fun at home, at the beach, on a rainy day or at camp.

Individuals can visit or arrange for a group field trip to the Recycle/Resource Center at 38 Montvale Avenue, Suite 330, Stoneham. Select a grocery bag full of a wide variety of materials for creative and fun projects for a $5 donation ($3 for members). Zots and much more. Plenty of suggestions for projects are available.

As a special "thanks", every patron receives a free box of Annie's Macaroni and Cheese or a "Be Green" bumper sticker and is eligible to win a complimentary pair of tickets for a Charles River boat cruise.

The Resource Recycle Center is open Tuesday through Friday from 9 am to 2 pm; Tuesday through Thursday evenings from 5 to 8 pm and 1st Saturday of each month from 9 am to 1 pm.

Summer is also a great time for kids to host a neighborhood Bottle Drive or Yard Sale in honor of everyone's favorite polar bear that was recently euthanized. NCECP accepts the proceeds or bags of redeemable bottles and cans to benefit the "Major, the Polar Bear Scholarship Fund".

NCECP is a local nonprofit organization dedicated to benefiting children by supporting teachers and families since 1991. Phone or fax at 781-279-4658, email ncecp@shore.net or visit www.ncecp.com those feelings in that one student, she knew she was on to something bigger than she had realized.

"I could see the burden just lifting from her," said Davis. "When I saw how dramatic this type of writing could be, I wanted to share it with a wider audience."

"Davis soon found that audience in the most 90's of places: the internet.

"After creating a website, Davis began the daunting task of actually teaching across a mix of telephone wires. Today she has perfected the idea, currently teaching four courses from her website. Davis' students are not the wooden chair and desk type. Their work is done mostly on their own, on their own time. While students are permitted, even encouraged to share their work, it is not mandatory. Assignments are delivered over the website and by E-mail, and the best works are selected for a critique by Davis.

"It is one of those courses, 'Writing about Cancer,' that was, in part, the core of 'The Healing Wave'."

MOVIE REVIEWS

"The Replacements"

BY PAUL FEELY

MOVIE: "THE REPLACEMENTS"
GRADE: **

Review: This film is very close to one that came out in the late 80's called 'Necessary Roughness'.

Keanu Reeves plays a man who was a rising star as quarterback in college, but whose life has since fallen on hard times. No NFL team will touch him, but when a labor issue threatens to put an end to the season, owners decide to use replacement players, and he gets his shot at the big time.

Gene Hackman turns in a strong performance as the tough, hard-nosed coach who also has a heart, but there's much else to crow about with this one. The team even features replacement cheerleaders, taking dancers from a local strip club and putting them on the field, which creates some funny situations, but overall this one is a bit of a clunker.

SHORTTAKES

MOVIE: "SPACE COWBOYS"

GRADE: ***

Review: Once again Clint Eastwood has proven that he's willing to shed his tough guy image and broaden his acting horizons as he grows older.

Eastwood, who also directed this feature, stars as the head of a team of men (consisting of Tommy Lee Jones, Donald Sutherland, and James Garner) who were originally scheduled to be the first Americans in space, before NASA decided to replace them with a chimp.

Now, 40 years later, a Russian satellite from that time period is failing, and Eastwood and his team are the only one still alive who know the schematics of such a device. They begin training, hoping to finally get their shot at heading into space. Of course, unexpected problems develop.

This one plays like an adult's version of 'Armageddon', as Eastwood expertly bounces between action and funny scenes. Jones gives a great performance as a hotshot pilot, while Garner gives it his all (he needed knee surgery after filming the jogging scenes).

MOVIE: "WHAT LIES BENEATH"

GRADE: **

Review: This mediocre horror movie gets by on the star power of its two leads, Harrison Ford and Michelle Pfeiffer.

They play a husband and wife who are facing empty nest syndrome, when Pfeiffer's character starts having hallucinations and seeing ghostly apparitions. It turns out that their home is being haunted, by the ghost of a woman whom Ford's character had an affair with years ago, who wants her revenge.

Hooray to Hollywood for pairing up a husband and wife team that are close to each other in actual age, but the script isn't what it could be. Some moments are scary, but for the most part, if you have seen the coming attraction trailer for this one, you already know what's coming.

MOVIE: "X-MEN"
GRADE: ***

Review: is one of the better comic book adaptations to come along since Tim Burton's 'Batman', and was obviously written and directed by a fan of the wildly popular series.

The premise is that evolution occurs through the slow mutation of a species, and that every 100,000 years or so there is an explosion of mutations. That is happening now, as hundreds of humans are turning up with superpowers that intensify when they reach puberty.

Relatively unknown actor Hugh Jackman stars as Logan, a mutant with a self-healing power, retractable metal claws and a super-strong endoskeleton called Wolverine. Patrick Stewart plays Professor X, who runs a school where mutants can learn to harness their skills. Ian McKellan plays Magneto, an evil mutant that wants to wipe out the human race for persecuting the humans, an effort led by a US Senator whom he turns into a mutant as well.

While a story about super-heroes, X-Men was always about treating people the same, even though they may be different than you, a message of tolerance. The movie manages to communicate that message effectively, while dazzling you with special effects, superb stunts, and above-average acting.

Dance Studio wins in Las Vegas

Members of the senior dance companies from The Dance Studio of Wakefield recently returned from a trip to Las Vegas after competing in the American Dance Awards National Dance and Performing Arts competition.

The competition was six days long with over 1500 routines competing for bronze, silver, gold and ultimate gold adjudications. The Dance Studio competed 47 routines and received silver, high silver, gold and one ultimate gold for their efforts. A production lyrical routine "With Voices Raised" competed in a separate category as well for the Diamond Award. One Diamond award is presented in each regional and then competes at Nationals.

The lyrical number, "With Voices Raised" was a five minute interpretation of the Boston Pops historical tribute presented on July 4, 1999. The 24 students competed brilliantly and received the coveted Ultimate Gold.

The end of the competition week is highlighted with the top ten routines in each category competing in a dance-off for high score awards to be presented at the formal award ceremony and banquet. Out of the 50 numbers that competed only five would reach nominee status and the top three would be announced. "With Voices Raised" was announced as a nominee and then took home the third place award. Susan Edson and Diane Abraham, instructors and owners of The Dance Studio of Wakefield offered their opinion; "It was a very exciting week and ended with such a thrill. The students worked hard and gave their best efforts, to be awarded such a prestigious honor is something we have worked towards. The talent at this competition is some of the best the United States and Canada has to offer. Just to compete at this level is exciting."

The Dance Studio of Wakefield will have open registration at the studio, 456 Main Street Wakefield, Monday through Thursday 2-7 pm. There are all levels of dance available beginning at age three. For more information please call 245-9409.

Cavanaugh

From S-1

Today Robert H. Cavanaugh, Jr. walks with a deliberate and painful limp as he comes around the corner of the stately antique colonial at the bend in the road on Pleasant Street, Woburn. A mountain of a man with white hair, moustache and glasses greets this writer and invites him into the place he and wife Jean have rented and called home for the last 45 years. Entering the Goodsell house is like stepping back in time (1813) when life was in many ways simpler but definitely not easier. The late Irene (Fogg) Goodsell's antique colonial has seen better days. Paint peels and time reveals a home badly in need of tender loving care. Inside the antique colonial it's a treasure trove of charm and warmth. The early nineteenth century's furniture, and craftsmanship blends in with the new millennium's appliances and conveniences. Bob's Jean is as small as he is large, and hospitable to a fault. Coffee is served steaming hot in the quaint and comfortable front living room where we learn the Cavanaugh's have raised five children in the large two family house by the side of busy Pleasant Street. Bob slowly and carefully eases himself into a chair in front of a well-worn wood desk complete with a large magnifying glass he uses because of poor eyesight. Today the boy in the man looks back with satisfaction and pride. He says, "I was born in Plymouth. My dad worked for the F.W. Woolworth Co. We moved around quite a bit. He was transferred to Woburn in 1930 or 1931 (to the Woolworth store located) in Woburn Center at Busy Bend on Main Street where H & R Block is today. "The Cavanaugh's life story flows forth in swirls and eddies like a never bending river in northern Maine. Jean (Phelan) Cavanaugh was born in Calais, ME near the Atlantic Provinces of Canada and the St. Croix River. Bob Cavanaugh, Jr., traces the St. Croix to its and his origin. "Her dad and my dad were both musicians and played in the Calais City Band. We (the Cavanaugh's) vacationed there," and that's where the river, and eventually Jean and Bob merged continuing on their life's journey, eventually settling into their present apartment in the old Goodsell homestead where new life soon burgeoned. That voice tells you, "I'm quite proud of our family, Bonnie is a nurse practitioner. She got her master degree at B.C. three years ago. Kim is a technician for Raytheon in San Diego, (CA)." From around the corner comes the gentle but firm voice of Jean Cavanaugh who sets the record straight. "She's a teaching technician." "Laurie's an operating room nurse in Virginia Beach, VA, and Bob works in the maintenance department at Anheuser Bush, Merrimack, N.H."

Ok. Time to find out how and why this outdoors man first got interested in tying fishing flies. He enlightens us, "I've always been interested in fishing. Christmas and your birthday was fun, but there was one great day - the opening fishing day, April 15th. In the mid 1930's I saw a man at Mechanics Hall, Boston using feathers to tie flies." This was long before the "Splendid Splinter", alias Ted Williams, started drawing crowds at Boston Sportsman Shows, but it was in plenty of time to light young Bob Cavanaugh's fire. Today Mr. Cavanaugh recalls this guy's "flies were acceptable-not perfect. My dad advanced me $5 which was a lot of money in those days, to buy a fly tying kit in Boston." By the time his namesake was old enough to pick up a bamboo fly rod dad had perfected his fly tying technique, and was spending a lot of time tying imitation flies which would match the hatch of larval insects on nearby Horn Pond which was clean, and pristine in the late 1930's. Given his druthers young Cavanaugh would have liked to fish and hunt til the cows came home. However, a resourceful wife demanded shoes, food and clothing for her growing family.

Meanwhile, a good husband and father was also resourceful. Sixty two years ago the magician with feathers, fur, hair and black silk thread was creating great looking flies that caught the attention of Sumner Towne, Co., Brookline. Why did he tie them? The 6'2", 250 pound man says, "To finance my fishing trips to Maine and northern New Hampshire." What was this man's greatest opportunity, and did he make the most of it? The traditional roll cast in a tight spot on the river is predictable. Mr. Cavanaugh's answer is not. "Going into the music business in the late 50's. I ran the guitar section for E. Wurlitzer, Boston which was very busy in those days." Ironically, fishing brought Mr. Cavanaugh, a fishing companion and a new job together like Bob's gray ghosts attract Atlantic Salmon. This fly fisher explains, "This fellow and I did a lot of (fly) fishing together all over New England. We were fishing one night at Horn Pond (Woburn) when Tim Jachrimo mentioned they (his company) were getting busy and they needed somebody."

I said, "I've got an applicant right now." He said, "who." I said, "me." I had an interview with Ernie Wurlitzer, and spent 24 years there and became a vice president. Tim Jachrimo is retired and living in Florida. We still write each other."

"I was very, very happy, indeed to fish in New England. I'm old enough to remember when you could catch native brook trout in Degreasing Brook, West Woburn. I remember catching a fish on a fly that (my son) Bobby tied for me when he was five. I thanked him for it; it was a humongous thing, and I used it on the way home from a (late night) gig. I always kept a rod in the car and I used this fly in Horn Pond, along the Parkway, where I caught a three pound brook trout where the brook enters the pond."

Today Horn Pond is the receptacle for a lot of Burlington sewage."

When Bob Cavanaugh, Jr. was trying to make ends meet in the 50's, 60's, and 70's he played bass guitar, vibraphone and bass at many functions around Greater Boston. In those days his fingers were supple and nimble. Today, in the autumn of his life, they are bent and swollen with arthritis. There's a trace of sadness in his voice when this talented man says, "When I pick up my electric spanish guitar I don't have enough fingers to play what I hear (in his mind and soul)." But it doesn't hurt when the old guitarist closes his eyes. He pretends he's playing a cool duet with Don Alessi, at one time, the best known guitar player in Greater Boston. Tonight Bob Cavanaugh, Jr.'s the featured soloist. The hour's late and the dancers restless. They are reassured and much calmer as this guitar soloist takes center stage. They anticipate something special. He's taking the last request from an appreciative audience; the kind that often came up to him and said, "I like your music." Suddenly like a flaming meteor streaking across the sky the heavens open up into breath taking galaxies of black and white. Time to play goodnight, and what a special setting. Suddenly the heavens open up into spectacular galaxies of black and white that take the breath away. Time to play Duke Ellington's great satin smooth standard, Star Dust, one last time. A bit of heaven on earth.

On Golden Pond

Enjoy all four seasons in this delightful renovated colonial on a magnificent water front lot! Overlooking Martin's Pond, this week's sampler home boasts its own fenced yard with 8,712 s.f. of land, private beach and boat dock.

The second level was added in 1988 and consists of a master bedroom with fabulous views of the water and a new floral patterned carpet, a second full bath, and large exercise area with a new Berber carpet, which could also be utilized in any number of ways.

The first floor includes a charming sitting area with a computer desk tucked under the stairway. Two additional bedrooms are also located on this floor. The large eat-in country kitchen has quarry tile floor and extensive cabinet space. There is a lovely new full bath with a Victorian flair and includes; Perego "wood like floor", pedestal sink and "Slipper" tub.

The 26 x 13 family room with woodstove, new carpet and atrium doors lead to an enormous deck which overlooks the grassy private backyard and Pond.

A fourth bedroom is located in the lower level which could easily be converted into another family room or office. Also there is a 32 x 18 workshop and storage area with a walk out basement.

Enjoy the magnificent sunsets and tranquil setting and call for an appointment today.

The property is offered for $289,000 by Joanne DeVoe at Century 21 Spindler & O'Neil, 247 Main Street, in North Reading.

Call Joanne at 978-664-1094 ext. 19 for your private showing or for a virtual tour of this lovely home, visit the Century 21 website @ WWW.Century21@AOL.com.

THIS DELIGHTFULLY RENOVATED home has four bedrooms and overlooks Martin's Pond.

THE VIEW FROM THE DECK (above) is to the grassy private backyard and pond. The large eat-in country kitchen (at right) leads to a 26 x 13 family room.

MAR discounts fees

The Massachusetts Association of Realtors (MAR) has announced special registration fees for Realtors and non-member licensees who attend the upcoming 2000 MAR Convention and Trade Show to be held from September 5-7 at the Sea Crest Oceanfront Resort and Conference Center, North Falmouth.

Over 20 educational sessions will be offered during the 76th Annual MAR Convention, several presented by nationally known real estate trainers, Rolf Anderson, Charles Dahlheimer, Anne Bailey and Dianna Brouters. The program is jam packed with dynamite sessions on sales and marketing techniques, legal liability issues, and technology.

The three-day program will feature more than 40 hours of approved education programs including professional development certificate programs on technology and real estate trends, a Certified Residential Specialist (CRS) designation course offering, and, core and elective course selections enabling agents to acquire all 12 hours of mandatory continuing education requirements needed for license renewal. Additionally, the trade show will host over 60 exhibits by local and national vendors including computer software and hardware providers, financial planners, mortgage lenders, office supply firms, and sales and promotional marketing firms.

Discounted registration fees are available for Realtors and non-member licensees who register by August 18. Full convention registration fees are $150 for MAR members and $200 for non-members. In addition single-day registration fees are $99 for MAR members and $150 for non-members who register by August 18. After August 18, all registration fees increase by $95.

Get advice and blueprints on line

Architect Donald Berg, author of many popular books on building in the country, has put together a new Internet site for people who are looking for plans and advice. It's called "A Better Plan for Country Builders." You can see it at www.abetterplan.com

The site presents more than 300 designs by 27 talented architects and designers. The buildings include barns, cabins, cottages, stables, garages, sheds, tractor shelters, workshops, live-in carriage houses and other useful outbuildings. All have the look and common-sense practicality of the best traditional country buildings. Inexpensive blueprints can be ordered directly from any of the designers. Plan books and catalogs available on the site offer you even more choices.

A directory page has links to dozens of other helpful sites for advice on planning your building and for sources of products and services. You'll also find a list of Berg's books and his recommendations of the best country building guide books from Amazon.com.

A fire in the Mayaguez Theater in San Juan, Puerto Rico, on June 20, 1919 resulted in the death of 150 people.

In April, 1998, the Internal Revenue Service sent Lorie Marling of Columbus, Ohio, a bill for $270 billion in back taxes. The letter, which the IRS later admitted was a mistake, offered to let her pay the debt in three installments of $90 billion each.

According to "The People's Almanac" 35-year-old Richard Fresquez of Austin, Texas, was strangled by a garden hose. He became drunk on the night of May 7, 1983, tripped on the garden hose, became tangled in it and strangled to death while trying to break free.

EARN WHILE YOU LEARN NEW CLINIC ASSISTANT TRAINING PROGRAM CLASSES BEGIN IN SEPTEMBER

Lahey Clinic is pleased to announce its first training program for Clinic Assistants. As a Clinic Assistant Trainee you will complete a six-week course which includes basic anatomy, basic medical terminology, vital signs assessment, specimen processing and basic computer skills. The hours for the program are Monday through Friday from 8am until 4:30pm, and you will be paid $8.00 per hour with a full benefits package. Upon successful completion, you will be given first consideration for open positions in one of our outpatient clinics, where you will assist physicians in patient exams and procedures.

If you have a high school diploma or equivalent, a desire to work in a health care setting, and are available for a full-time, 6 week schedule starting in September, please come for an interview:

Wednesday, August 23rd from 2pm until 6 pm
Human Resources Department
31 Mall Road, Burlington, MA

If you are unable to attend the interview session, please forward your resume to: Lahey Clinic, Human Resources, 31 Mall Road, Burlington, MA 01805. Phone: (781) 744-8845 Fax: (781) 744-5653. TDD: (781) 744-8086 email: careers@lahey.org
